Academic Dress

The history of academic dress dates from the earliest days of European universities. It is still debated whether academic dress originated chiefly in ecclesiastical or civilian dress. Gowns may well have been necessary for warmth in the unheated buildings used by medieval scholars. Hoods seem originally to have served as covering for the tonsured heads of monk-scholars until superceded by skull caps and those in turn by more familiar “academic” caps.

The dress reveals the history of the wearer’s highest academic achievement. The Bachelor’s gown has long pointed sleeves and is worn closed. The Master’s has squared sleeves which extend below the knee; it is worn open or closed. The Doctor’s gown has bell-shaped sleeves with three velvet bars and velvet facing. Most American gowns are black.

Hoods are lined with the official colors of the institution conferring the degree. The velvet edging of the hood designates the field of the degree or the faculty by which it is conferred. Colors most commonly to be seen include:

WHITE - Arts and Letters

BROWN - Fine Arts

GOLDEN YELLOW - Science

GREEN - Medicine

DARK BLUE - Philosophy

COPPER - Economics

SCARLET - Theology

LIGHT BLUE - Education

PURPLE - Law

CRIMSON - Humanities

ORANGE - Engineering

PINK - Music
