Unit 1

Emergence of the First Global Age

Summary and Rationale

This period is defined by the increasing interactions between civilizations. These increasingly frequent interactions had significant impacts – both positive and negative – on the areas of Asia, the Middle East, Europe, Africa, and the Americas. The growth of religion, as well as the movement of people and ideas through trade - both on land and by sea - resulted in cultural diffusion. Through trade, the spread of religion, and cultural diffusion, civilizations became increasingly interconnected and interdependent. As a result of increasingly frequent and impactful interactions, societies were forced to respond to new ideas that often led to changes and conflict within and between civilizations. The spread of ideas, religion, as well as diseases and conflict, helped bring about the end of the medieval period on the eve of the modern era.

Students will study the impact of these interactions and the changes that occurred within and across societies. Students will investigate the various different empires around from the mid-1300s to the 1500s, studying both unique cultural aspects of these empires and making connections as to the impact of cultural diffusion. Content will include empires such as the Ming, Japan, and various different European, African, and Muslim empires, the impact of European exploration around the globe, and the long term effects of a new interconnected global system.

Standards

NJSLS

6.2.12.GeoSV.1.a	Use geographic representations to assess changes in political boundaries and the impact of European political and military control in Africa, Asia, and the Americas by the mid-18th century.
6.2.12.GeoPP.1.a	Determine the role of natural resources, climate, and topography in European exploration, colonization, and settlement patterns.
6.2.12.GeoGE.1.a	Compare and contrast the economic policies of China and Japan, and determine the impact these policies had on growth, the desire for colonies, and the relative positions of China and Japan within the emerging global economy.
6.2.12.GeoGE.1.b	Trace the movement of essential commodities (e.g., sugar, cotton) from Asia to Europe to America, and determine the impact trade has on the New World's economy and society.
6.2.12.GeoGE.1.c	Assess the role of mercantilism in stimulating European expansion through trade, conquest, and colonization.
6.2.12.GeoGE.1.d	Determine the effects of increased global trade and the importation of gold and silver from the New World on inflation in Europe, Southwest Asia, and Africa.

6.2.12.HistoryCC.1.a	Determine the extent to which various technologies, (e.g., printing, marine compass, cannonry, Arabic numerals) derived from Europe's interactions with Islam and Asia provided the necessary tools for European exploration and conquest.
6.2.12.HistoryCC.1.b	Analyze various motivations for the Atlantic slave trade and the impact on Europeans, Africans, and Americans.
6.2.12.HistoryCC.1.c	Explain how the new social stratification created by voluntary and coerced interactions among Native Americans, Africans, and Europeans in Spanish colonies laid the foundation for conflict.
6.2.12.HistoryCC.1.d	Compare slavery practices and other forms of coerced labor or social bondage common in East Africa, West Africa, Southwest Asia, Europe, and the Americas.
6.2.12.HistoryCC.1.e	Compare and contrast the motivations for and methods by which various empires (e.g., Ming, Qing, Spanish, Mughal, Ottoman) expanded, and assess why some were more effective than others in maintaining control of their empires.
6.2.12.HistoryCC.1.f	Assess the political, social, and economic impact of the interactions between indigenous peoples and colonizers over different time periods (e.g., Columbian Exchange, forced labor, slave trade and slavery practices, spread of disease, lingering effects on cultures).
6.2.12.HistoryCC.1.g	Assess the impact of economic, political, and social policies and practices regarding African slaves, indigenous peoples, and Europeans in the Spanish and Portuguese colonies.
6.2.12.GeoPP.5.a	Use a variety of sources to explain the impact of migration on the way of life in the country of origin and the new country (e.g., social, economic, political structures).
CCSS-ELA - Literacy in History/Social Sciences
CCSS.ELA-LITERACY .RH.9-10.1	Cite specific textual evidence to support analysis of primary and secondary sources, attending to such features as the date and origin of the information.
CCSS.ELA-LITERACY .RH.9-10.2	Determine the central ideas or information of a primary or secondary source; provide an accurate summary of how key events or ideas develop over the course of the text.
CCSS.ELA-LITERACY .RH.9-10.3	Analyze in detail a series of events described in a text; determine whether earlier events caused later ones or simply preceded them.
CCSS.ELA-LITERACY .RH.9-10.4	Determine the meaning of words and phrases as they are used in a text, including vocabulary describing political, social, or economic aspects of history/social science.
CCSS.ELA-LITERACY .RH.9-10.5	Analyze how a text uses structure to emphasize key points or advance an explanation or analysis.
CCSS.ELA-LITERACY .RH.9-10.6	Compare the point of view of two or more authors for how they treat the same or similar topics, including which details they include and emphasize in their respective accounts.
CCSS.ELA-LITERACY .RH.9-10.7	Integrate quantitative or technical analysis (e.g., charts, research data) with qualitative analysis in print or digital text.

CCSS.ELA-LITERACY .RH.9-10.8	Assess the extent to which the reasoning and evidence in a text support the author's claims.
CCSS.ELA-LITERACY .RH.9-10.9	Compare and contrast treatments of the same topic in several primary and secondary sources.
CCSS.ELA-LITERACY .RH.9-10.10	By the end of grade 10, read and comprehend history/social studies texts in the grades 9-10 text complexity band independently and proficiently.
CCSS-ELA - Writing
CCSS.ELA-LITERACY .W.9-10.1.A	Introduce precise claim(s), distinguish the claim(s) from alternate or opposing claims, and create an organization that establishes clear relationships among claim(s), counterclaims, reasons, and evidence.
CCSS.ELA-LITERACY .W.9-10.1.B	Develop claim(s) and counterclaims fairly, supplying evidence for each while pointing out the strengths and limitations of both in a manner that anticipates the audience's knowledge level and concerns.
CCSS.ELA-LITERACY .W.9-10.1.C	Use words, phrases, and clauses to link the major sections of the text, create cohesion, and clarify the relationships between claim(s) and reasons, between reasons and evidence, and between claim(s) and counterclaims.
CCSS.ELA-LITERACY .W.9-10.1.D	Establish and maintain a formal style and objective tone while attending to the norms and conventions of the discipline in which they are writing.
CCSS.ELA-LITERACY .W.9-10.1.E	Provide a concluding statement or section that follows from and supports the argument presented.
Social Justice Standards (As Applicable)
ID.9-12.3	I know that all my group identities and the intersection of those identities create unique aspects of who I am and that this is true for other people too.
ID.9-12.4	I express pride and confidence in my identity without perceiving or treating anyone else as inferior.
ID.9-12.5	I recognize traits of the dominant culture, my home culture and other cultures, and I am conscious of how I express my identity as I move between those spaces.
DI.9-12.6	I interact comfortably and respectfully with all people, whether they are similar to or different from me.
DI.9-12.7	I have the language and knowledge to accurately and respectfully describe how people (including myself ) are both similar to and different from each other and others in their identity groups.
DI.9-12.8	I respectfully express curiosity about the history and lived experiences of others and exchange ideas and beliefs in an open-minded way

DI.9-12.9	I relate to and build connections with other people by showing them empathy, respect and understanding, regardless of our similarities or differences.
DI.9-12.10	I understand that diversity includes the impact of unequal power relations on the development of group identities and cultures.
JU.9-12.11	I relate to all people as individuals rather than representatives of groups and can identify stereotypes when I see or hear them.
JU.9-12.12	I can recognize, describe and distinguish unfairness and injustice at different levels of society.
JU.9-12.13	I can explain the short and long-term impact of biased words and behaviors and unjust practices, laws and institutions that limit the rights and freedoms of people based on their identity groups.
JU.9-12.14	I am aware of the advantages and disadvantages I have in society because of my membership in different identity groups, and I know how this has affected my life.
JU.9-12.15	I can identify figures, groups, events and a variety of strategies and philosophies relevant to the history of social justice around the world.

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Geographic representations display cultural and environmental spatial patterns.</li> <li>● Geographic data can be used to analyze spatial patterns.</li> <li>● Maps, satellite images, photographs, and other representations can be used to explain relationships between the locations of places and regions, and changes in their environmental characteristics.</li> <li>● Demographic shifts and migration patterns both influence and are impacted by social, economic, and political systems.</li> <li>● Spatial patterns and population movements impact climate, land use, and other environmental factors.</li> <li>● Environmental and cultural characteristics of a place or region influence spatial patterns.</li> <li>● Human and physical systems are in constant interaction and have a reciprocal influence on one another.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● How do physical geography, human geography, and the human environment interact to influence or determine the development of cultures, societies, and nations?</li> <li>● How have scientific and technological developments over the course of history changed the way people live and economies and governments function?</li> <li>● How do our interpretations of past events inform our understanding of cause and effect, and continuity and change, and how do they influence our beliefs and decisions about current public policy issues?</li> <li>● How can the study of multiple perspectives, beliefs systems, and cultures provide a context for understanding and challenging public actions and decisions in a diverse and interdependent world?</li> </ul>

- Human settlement activities impact the environmental and cultural characteristics of specific places and regions.
- Political and economic decisions throughout time have influenced cultural and environmental characteristics.
- Global interconnections create complex spatial patterns at multiple scales that continue to change over time.
- Changes in the environmental and cultural characteristics of a place or region influence spatial patterns.
- Resources impact what is produced and employment opportunities.
- Societies make decisions about how to produce and distribute goods and services and these decisions are influenced by the control of the means of production.
- Economic ways of thinking are influenced by economists, economic theories, and economic laws (e.g., Smith, Malthus, Ricardo, Marx, Schumpeter, Keynes, Friedman).
- Advancements in technology and investments in capital goods and human capital increase economic growth and standards of living.
- Global economic activities involve decisions based on national interests, the exchange of different units of exchange, decisions of public and private institutions, and the ability to distribute goods and services safely.
- Economic globalization affects economic growth, labor markets, human rights guarantees, the environment, resource allocation, income distribution, and culture.
- Chronological sequencing serves as a tool for analyzing past and present events.
- Historical events and developments were shaped by the unique circumstances of time and place as well as broader historical contexts.
- There are multiple and complex causes and effects of historical events.
- Understanding the interrelated patterns of change by examining multiple events allows for a clearer understanding of the significance of individuals and groups.

- To better understand the historical perspective, one must consider historical context.
- Complex interacting factors influence people's perspective.
- Historical sources and evidence provide an understanding of different points of view about historical events.
- Determining the validity of sources is critical to analyzing historic events.
- Historical claims and arguments are based on multiple sources.
- Evidence from multiple relevant historical sources and interpretations can be used to develop a reasoned argument about the past.

Unit Inquiry Question(s) →

- How do societies change and evolve over time as a result of cultural interactions?
- How do empires gain, maintain, and consolidate power?

Objectives (SLO)

Students will know:

- Reasons for interactions between regions in Afroeurasia.
- How societies like the Ming, Qing, Spanish, Mughal, and/or Ottoman expanded and their methods of maintaining control of their empires.
- Motivations for European exploration around the globe.
- What technological and intellectual developments enabled European contact and interaction with other parts of the world.
- How a global economy emerged from European exploration.
- The effects and consequences of European exploration on societies and peoples around the world.
- The impact of the slave trade on African political structures and the lasting effects.

Students will be able to:

- Analyze primary and secondary sources.
- Describe the interactions and exchanges that occurred between empires as a result of trade.
- Identify the major empires and city-states of Africa.
- Analyze the influence of Islam on the growth of trade networks and power relations in West African empires and Eastern city-states.
- Describe the impact and contributions of Islamic and African societies.
- Analyze how the Chinese government, industry, and trade changed after China overthrew its Mongol rulers and restored the Chinese empire.
- Explain the impact China had on other societies in Asia.
- Describe Japanese society under the feudal and shogunate periods.
- Compare and contrast China and Japan's responses to outside influence.
- Examine the four social classes that existed within the Ottoman Empire and how this impacted the Islamic Empire.

- Examine the impact of religion on the colonists and the influence European culture had on the Americas.
- Analyze and trace the movement of goods around the world and the effects this had on societies.
- Describe the contributions of Afroeurasia and the Americas to the biological exchanges of plants, animals, humans, and germs initiated by the permanent linking of these two regions.
- Explain the consequences for global trade of linking America and Afroeurasia with each other.
- Evaluate the Native American and Black holocausts.
- Explain the economic systems of mercantilism and capitalism.
- Create an original claim using historical evidence.
- Write an informative response using historical evidence and documents as support.

Modifications

Special Education -

- Modifications and accommodations must be aligned to the stated plan and uphold expectations of the plan lawfully. Every student requires a different set of accommodations based upon need. Examples specific to science practice include, but are not limited to:
  - Group assignments
  - Use of scribe
  - Additional time and separate room for test taking
  - Additional time for in-class assignments
  - Computer with voice output, spelling and grammar checker
  - Seating in the front of the class
  - Assignments in electronic format
  - Individualized instruction
  - Use High Interest materials
  - Modeling
  - Provide Immediate Feedback
  - Relate learning to real life situations when possible
  - Use proximity changes about the room to keep students focused
  - Offer a printed copy or copy of teacher notes
  - Allow for spelling and grammar errors
  - Offer individual help throughout the lesson
  - Differentiated Instruction/Readings
  - Speech to Text
  - Modified Readings and Primary Source documents

ELL

- Provide additional wait time for student responses to questions to allow students the ability to undergo the process of translation between languages, composition of response and attempted response.
- Simplification of sentence structure and repetition of questions/sentences exactly as stated before trying to rephrase to allow ELL students to hear the sentence and try to comprehend it.
- Rephrase idioms and teach their meanings as when learning a new language, translations are often very literal. Ensure students understand what is meant.
- Use directed reading activities. Ensure preview of text before assigned/read, provide pre-reading questions about the main idea and offer help utilizing key words.
- Allow the use of Google Translate where appropriate.

Gifted and Talented -

- Utilize differentiation in the areas of acceleration, enrichment, and grouping. Examples include, but are not limited to:
  - Interdisciplinary and problem-based assignments with planned scope and sequence
  - Advance, accelerated, or compacted content
  - Abstract and advanced higher-level thinking
  - Allowance for individual student interests
  - Assignments geared to development in areas of affect, creativity, cognition, and research skills
  - Complex, in-depth assignments
  - Civerse enrichment that broadens learning
  - Variety in types of resources
  - Internships, mentorships and independent study where applicable

- Modifications and accommodations must be aligned to the stated plan and uphold expectations of the plan lawfully. Every student requires a different set of accommodations based upon need. Examples specific to science practice include, but are not limited to:

Unit 2
Rise of Modern Society
Summary and Rationale
This period is defined by new political, economic, and cultural ideas that provided the foundation for the modern era and establishes the context for contemporary issues concerning globalization. While many of these new ideas emerged in Europe during the Renaissance, Reformation, Scientific Revolution, and the Enlightenment, these new ideas extended beyond just Europe. Changes in economics, government, society, and cultural interactions occurred across the globe and many of the institutions that define the current world order have their origins in the ideas that emerged during this period. The story of much of subsequent world history is connected to this period. Students will continue their investigation of empires around the world and studies will include the transformation of Europe during the Renaissance, Reformation, and Scientific Revolution. Students will come to understand that while geography and population pressures contributed to European exploration and expansion, the most important source of European power was the unique synthesis of new ideas that fueled revolutions in science, technology, the arts, economics, and political organization. Students will also look at the expansion of empires in the Middle East and other empires during this time period and the impact of cultural interactions on the expansion, height, and fall of these empires.

Modifications

Special Education -

- Modifications and accommodations must be aligned to the stated plan and uphold expectations of the plan lawfully. Every student requires a different set of accommodations based upon need. Examples specific to science practice include, but are not limited to:
  - Group assignments
  - Use of scribe
  - Additional time and separate room for test taking
  - Additional time for in-class assignments
  - Computer with voice output, spelling and grammar checker
  - Seating in the front of the class
  - Assignments in electronic format
  - Individualized instruction
  - Use High Interest materials
  - Modeling
  - Provide Immediate Feedback
  - Relate learning to real life situations when possible
  - Use proximity changes about the room to keep students focused
  - Offer a printed copy or copy of teacher notes

- Allow for spelling and grammar errors
- Offer individual help throughout the lesson
- Differentiated Instruction/Readings
- Speech to Text
- Modified Readings and Primary Source documents

ELL

- Provide additional wait time for student responses to questions to allow students the ability to undergo the process of translation between languages, composition of response and attempted response.
- Simplification of sentence structure and repetition of questions/sentences exactly as stated before trying to rephrase to allow ELL students to hear the sentence and try to comprehend it.
- Rephrase idioms and teach their meanings as when learning a new language, translations are often very literal. Ensure students understand what is meant.
- Use directed reading activities. Ensure preview of text before assigned/read, provide pre-reading questions about the main idea and offer help utilizing key words.
- Allow the use of Google Translate where appropriate.

Gifted and Talented -

- Utilize differentiation in the areas of acceleration, enrichment, and grouping. Examples include, but are not limited to:
  - Interdisciplinary and problem-based assignments with planned scope and sequence
  - Advance, accelerated, or compacted content
  - Abstract and advanced higher-level thinking
  - Allowance for individual student interests
  - Assignments geared to development in areas of affect, creativity, cognition, and research skills
  - Complex, in-depth assignments
  - Diverse enrichment that broadens learning
  - Variety in types of resources
  - Internships, mentorships and independent study where applicable

Unit 3

Reason and Revolution

Summary and Rationale

Absolutism and centralized power dominated the globe during the 17th and 18th centuries. Despite numerous obstacles, absolute leaders succeeded in centralizing power during this period. However, the struggle for stability often came at a cost to the peoples living under these regimes. These struggles, the changing values and increased secularism of the previous centuries, plus the new notions of natural rights, all culminated in the Age of Enlightenment in Europe. The final decades of the 18th century were a time of great upheaval. A series of revolutions and revolutionary wars challenged the old order of absolutism and the aristocratic way of life and brought about new governments with roots in a democratic system. This revolutionary era began with the American Revolution, spread across Europe and extended to Latin America. People all over the world, each with varied interests, contributed to these revolutionary actions. Ultimately, these Enlightenment ideas of freedom and equality have not stopped shaping the world since that era, and have flourished and spread. This time period established many ideals that are still fundamental to our society today.

Students will initially examine and evaluate the world around the 1700s and gain an understanding of the absolute rulers and autocratic empires that engulfed the globe across the continents of Africa, Asia, and Europe and impacted other areas of the world. They will then study ideals of the Enlightenment and how the idea of natural rights provided a basis for political and civil rights in government, which, overtime, led to future developments in human rights. Students will also consider the concept of “revolution” as it applies to the enduring intellectual, social, political, and economic changes that emerged during this period and beyond. These revolutions will include the Atlantic Revolutions with connections to future political revolutions that impacted peoples around the world.

Unit 4

Industrialization, Imperialism, and Nationalism

Summary and Rationale

The Agricultural Revolution emerged from the new knowledge learned from the Scientific Revolution and the new products from the Age of Exploration. As populations began to grow, society began to shift and change. The Industrial Revolution created a fundamental shift in society and altered all aspects of life. The rapidly expanding cities and the intensification of capitalism led to many problems and helped develop the second wave of human rights - social, economic, and the rise of the welfare state. Although the Industrial Revolution and nationalism shaped European society in the 19th century, the expansion of Europe as a result of these changes, dramatically impacted Asia, Africa, and the Middle East during the latter half of the century. In the Age of New Imperialism that began in the 1870s, European states established vast empires mainly in Africa, but also in Asia and the Middle East. European nations pursued an aggressive expansion policy that was motivated by the economic needs created by the Industrial Revolution. The expansion policy was also motivated by political needs which associated empire-building with national greatness, and social and religious reasons that promoted the superiority of Western society and religion. Through the use of military force, economic spheres of influence, and annexation, European countries both dominated and devastated Africa and much of Asia which, over decades, inspired nationalist and independence movements within these regions. By 1914, imperialism had consequences that affected the colonial nations, Europe, and the world. The increased competition among nations would explode into the first world war, the Great War.

Students will look at the origins and effects of industrialization and how this fundamentally changed the way the world worked. By studying the problems and social ills of the industrial era, students will continue to investigate how people and governments responded to new demands for further human rights. Following the Industrial Revolution, content will include the motivations for European imperialism and then the effects of these actions from the perspective of the imperialized regions of the world. Students will then make connections between the effects of imperialism and the rise of nationalism, the push for self-determination, and various methods of independence movements.

Instructional Focus
Enduring Understandings:	Essential Question(s):

- Civic and political institutions address social and political problems at the local, state, tribal, national, and/or international levels.
- Democratic principles concerning universal human rights, concepts of equality, and the commitment to human freedom are commonly expressed in fundamental documents, values, laws, and practices.
- Social and political systems throughout time have promoted and denied civic virtues and democratic principles.
- Personal interests and perspectives impact the application of civic virtues, democratic principles, constitutional rights, and universal human rights.
- Historical, contemporary, and emerging processes, rules, laws, and policies are modified as societies change in an effort to promote the common good and strive to protect human rights.
- Historical, contemporary, and emerging processes, rules, laws, and policies are modified as societies change in an effort to promote the common good and protecting citizens' rights.
- Human and civil rights support the worth and dignity of the individual.
- Human rights serve as a foundation for democratic beliefs and practices.
- Human and physical systems are in constant interaction and have a reciprocal influence on one another.
- Human settlement activities impact the environmental and cultural characteristics of specific places and regions.
- Political and economic decisions throughout time have influenced cultural and environmental characteristics.
- Long-term climate variability has influenced human migration and settlement patterns, resource use, and land uses at local-to-global scales.
- Global interconnections create complex spatial patterns at multiple scales that continue to change over time.
- Resources impact what is produced and employment opportunities.

- How do citizens, civic ideals, and government institutions interact to balance the needs of individuals and the common good?
- How have economic, political, and cultural decisions promoted or prevented the growth of personal freedom, individual responsibility, equality, and respect for human dignity?
- How do physical geography, human geography, and the human environment interact to influence or determine the development of cultures, societies, and nations?
- How can individuals, groups, and societies apply economic reasoning to make difficult choices about scarce resources? What are the possible consequences of these decisions for individuals, groups, and societies?
- How have scientific and technological developments over the course of history changed the way people live and economies and governments function?
- How do our interpretations of past events inform our understanding of cause and effect, and continuity and change, and how do they influence our beliefs and decisions about current public policy issues?
- How can the study of multiple perspectives, beliefs systems, and cultures provide a context for understanding and challenging public actions and decisions in a diverse and interdependent world?

- Societies make decisions about how to produce and distribute goods and services and these decisions are influenced by the control of the means of production.
- Incentives influence choices which result in policy changes.
- Economic ways of thinking are influenced by economists, economic theories, and economic laws (e.g., Smith, Malthus, Ricardo, Marx, Schumpeter, Keynes, Friedman).
- Since most choices involve a little more of one thing and a little less of something else, economic decision making includes weighing the additional benefit of the action against the additional cost.
- The specialization of labor leads to greater efficiency in the means of production and the circular flow of goods and services between markets through a medium of exchange.
- Governments affect both public and private markets through regulation, taxation, budget allocations, subsidies, tariffs, price regulation, and policies that increase or reduce production possibilities.
- Governments and financial institutions influence monetary and fiscal policies.
- Advancements in technology and investments in capital goods and human capital increase economic growth and standards of living.
- Global economic activities involve decisions based on national interests, the exchange of different units of exchange, decisions of public and private institutions, and the ability to distribute goods and services safely.
- Economic globalization affects economic growth, labor markets, human rights guarantees, the environment, resource allocation, income distribution, and culture.
- Chronological sequencing serves as a tool for analyzing past and present events.
- Historical events and developments were shaped by the unique circumstances of time and place as well as broader historical contexts.
- There are multiple and complex causes and effects of historical events.

- Understanding the interrelated patterns of change by examining multiple events allows for a clearer understanding of the significance of individuals and groups.
- To better understand the historical perspective, one must consider historical context.
- Complex interacting factors influence people’s perspective.
- Historical sources and evidence provide an understanding of different points of view about historical events.
- Determining the validity of sources is critical to analyzing historic events.
- Historical claims and arguments are based on multiple sources.
- Evidence from multiple relevant historical sources and interpretations can be used to develop a reasoned argument about the past.

Unit Inquiry Question(s) →

- What was the impact of industrialization and imperialism around the world?
- How has the concept of human rights developed over time and how have human rights been violated in the past?

Objectives (SLO)

Students will know:

- The causes and effects of the Industrial Revolution.
- How the Industrial Revolution changed the economic, social, and political lives of people.
- The connections between the Industrial Revolution and imperialism.
- The causes and effects of imperialism.
- The connections between imperialism and the rise of nationalist movements in Asia, Africa, and the Middle East.
- The various different reasons for the rise of nationalist movements around the world.
- Motivations, characteristics, and tactics of nationalist movements varied around the world.
- Industrialization, imperialism, and nationalism helped set the stage for World War I.

Students will be able to:

- Analyze the changing conditions created by the Industrial Revolution in both Europe and the U.S..
- Explain how the agricultural revolution contributed to an industrial revolution.
- Describe how the Industrial Revolution brought about major changes to life, society, social classes, and the economy.
- Describe how individuals worked to rectify the violations to humans during this time period.
- Explain how the idea of human rights continued to develop during the Industrial Revolutions.
- Analyze primary source documents to understand how the Industrial Revolution impacted individuals.
- Compare and contrast child labor in the Industrial Revolution to problems of child labor in today's society.
- Compare and contrast capitalism, socialism, and communism.

- Define nation, state, nation-state, and nationalism.
- Evaluate the positive and negative uses of nationalism.
- Define imperialism.
- Explain and analyze the political, economic, and social roots of imperialism.
- Explain how imperialism was caused by political motivations such as nationalism, national rivalry, and a desire for overseas military bases.
- Analyze the spread of western values such as religion, customs, and ways of governing as a result of European imperialism.
- Explain how imperialism involved land acquisition, extraction of raw materials, spread western values and direct political control.
- Explain how racism intensified during this time period and the effects of race becoming a "biological science" rather than a social category.
- Explain the connections between the Industrial Revolution, imperialism, and nationalism.
- Describe the impact of imperialism on areas of the world such as Africa, India, China, Japan, and the Pacific.
- Analyze the common themes in the struggle for independence from imperial rule.
- Describe how African imperialism led to African nationalism.
- Describe imperialism in the Middle East.
- Explain how imperialism in the Middle East led to European actions (such as the Balfour Declaration, Skyes-Picot, the Durand Line, the partition of Pakistan and India, etc.) which still have impacts today.
- Assess the responses of India to growing Western influence (i.e. the Sepoy Rebellion, Gandhi's non-violence movement, the Quit India Movement).
- Assess the responses of China to growing Western influence (i.e. the Taiping Rebellion and the Boxer Rebellion).
- Evaluate the impact of Japan's decision to industrialize and then imperialize territories in Asia.
- Analyze the independence struggles of various "colonies", and debate the moral issues raised, particularly for "democratic" imperial powers -

- contradiction with democratic principles and self-determination.
- Analyze the world political map, and analyze competing imperial efforts as a precursor of global conflict.
  - Trace the evolution of the “uneasy peace” in pre-war Europe, and the competing growth of imperialism, nationalism and militarism.
  - Examine the geographic, political and economic rivalries, ethnic and ideological conflicts and domestic discontent and disorder that set the stage for war, and effected its course.
  - Research the impact of the Industrial Revolution, imperialism, and the growth of nationalist movements around the world.
  - Conduct sustained research.
  - Create an original project relating to the topic of industrialization, imperialism, and nationalism.

Modifications

Special Education -

- Modifications and accommodations must be aligned to the stated plan and uphold expectations of the plan lawfully. Every student requires a different set of accommodations based upon need. Examples specific to science practice include, but are not limited to:
  - Group assignments
  - Use of scribe
  - Additional time and separate room for test taking
  - Additional time for in-class assignments
  - Computer with voice output, spelling and grammar checker
  - Seating in the front of the class
  - Assignments in electronic format
  - Individualized instruction
  - Use High Interest materials
  - Modeling
  - Provide Immediate Feedback
  - Relate learning to real life situations when possible
  - Use proximity changes about the room to keep students focused
  - Offer a printed copy or copy of teacher notes
  - Allow for spelling and grammar errors
  - Offer individual help throughout the lesson
  - Differentiated Instruction/Readings
  - Speech to Text
  - Modified Readings and Primary Source documents

ELL

- Provide additional wait time for student responses to questions to allow students the ability to undergo the process of translation between languages, composition of response and attempted response.
- Simplification of sentence structure and repetition of questions/sentences exactly as stated before trying to rephrase to allow ELL students to hear the sentence and try to comprehend it.
- Rephrase idioms and teach their meanings as when learning a new language, translations are often very literal. Ensure students understand what is meant.
- Use directed reading activities. Ensure preview of text before assigned/read, provide pre-reading questions about the main idea and offer help utilizing key words.
- Allow the use of Google Translate where appropriate.

Gifted and Talented -

- Utilize differentiation in the areas of acceleration, enrichment, and grouping. Examples include, but are not limited to:
  - Interdisciplinary and problem-based assignments with planned scope and sequence
  - Advance, accelerated, or compacted content
  - Abstract and advanced higher-level thinking
  - Allowance for individual student interests
  - Assignments geared to development in areas of affect, creativity, cognition, and research skills
  - Complex, in-depth assignments
  - Civerse enrichment that broadens learning
  - Variety in types of resources
  - Internships, mentorships and independent study where applicable

Active Citizenship in the 21st Century (By the end of Grade 12)

Please select all standards that apply to this unit of study:

- Act as a responsible and contributing citizen and employee.
- Apply appropriate academic and technical skills.
- Attend to personal health and financial well being.
- Communicate clearly and effectively and with reason.
- Consider the environmental, social and economic impacts of decisions.
- Demonstrate creativity and innovation.
- Employ valid and reliable research strategies.

- Utilize critical thinking to make sense of problems and persevere in solving them.
- Model integrity, ethical leadership, and effective management.
- Plan education and career paths aligned to personal goals.
- Use technology to enhance productivity.
- Work productively in teams while using cultural global competence.

Suggestions on integrating these standards can be found at: <http://www.state.nj.us/education/cccs/2014/career/9.pdf>

Unit 5

Era of the Great Wars

Summary and Rationale

By 1914, increased competition among nations and the consequences of imperialism exploded into the first world war - the Great War. World War I was the culmination of all the tensions brought on by Europe's success: nationalism, imperialism, militarism, and a broken system of alliances. This war was long, indecisive, tremendously destructive, and unprecedented in scope and intensity and impacted nations around the globe. The Treaty of Versailles formally ended the war, but failed to address the deeper causes of the conflict. Out of the First World War, came the rise of dictators who implemented harsh policies and helped drive the world towards another global war. Dictators and World War II brought about unprecedented wartime casualties and a whole new wave of human rights violations, including one of the most deadly genocides in history, the Holocaust. Following the devastation of World War II, a new and different world emerged.

Students will study World War I from a variety of perspectives and evaluate the social, political, economic, and cultural ramifications of the First World War. Studies will connect back to the previous unit with the push for self-determination and independence in the Middle East, Africa, and Asia following their significant contributions to World War I. Students will also evaluate the failures of the Treaty of Versailles, which led to the rise of dictators, and then study authoritarian regimes of this time period and compare and contrast them to authoritarian regimes in the present day. The unit will culminate in the study of World War II from a global perspective, the Holocaust, and the aftermath of significant human rights violations, out of which came the United Nations, the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, and a world divided by political ideologies.

Modifications

Special Education -

- Modifications and accommodations must be aligned to the stated plan and uphold expectations of the plan lawfully. Every student requires a different set of accommodations based upon need. Examples specific to science practice include, but are not limited to:
  - Group assignments
  - Use of scribe
  - Additional time and separate room for test taking
  - Additional time for in-class assignments
  - Computer with voice output, spelling and grammar checker
  - Seating in the front of the class
  - Assignments in electronic format
  - Individualized instruction
  - Use High Interest materials
  - Modeling
  - Provide Immediate Feedback
  - Relate learning to real life situations when possible
  - Use proximity changes about the room to keep students focused
  - Offer a printed copy or copy of teacher notes
  - Allow for spelling and grammar errors
  - Offer individual help throughout the lesson
  - Differentiated Instruction/Readings
  - Speech to Text
  - Modified Readings and Primary Source documents

ELL

- Provide additional wait time for student responses to questions to allow students the ability to undergo the process of translation between languages, composition of response and attempted response.
- Simplification of sentence structure and repetition of questions/sentences exactly as stated before trying to rephrase to allow ELL students to hear the sentence and try to comprehend it.
- Rephrase idioms and teach their meanings as when learning a new language, translations are often very literal. Ensure students understand what is meant.
- Use directed reading activities. Ensure preview of text before assigned/read, provide pre-reading questions about the main idea and offer help utilizing key words.
- Allow the use of Google Translate where appropriate.

Gifted and Talented -

- Utilize differentiation in the areas of acceleration, enrichment, and grouping. Examples include, but are not limited to:
  - Interdisciplinary and problem-based assignments with planned scope and sequence
  - Advance, accelerated, or compacted content
  - Abstract and advanced higher-level thinking
  - Allowance for individual student interests
  - Assignments geared to development in areas of affect, creativity, cognition, and research skills
  - Complex, in-depth assignments
  - Civerse enrichment that broadens learning
  - Variety in types of resources
  - Internships, mentorships and independent study where applicable

The Post-1945 and Contemporary World

Summary and Rationale

Decolonization, the emergence of new independent nations, and competing ideologies changed the political landscape and national identities of those involved, and sometimes included military confrontations and violations of human rights. International migration and scientific and technological improvements in the second half of the 20th century resulted in an increasingly global economy and society that are challenged by limited natural resources. Technological innovation, economic interdependence, changes in population growth, migratory patterns, and the development, distribution, and use of natural resources offer challenges and opportunities that transcend regional and national borders.

Content in this unit will include:

United Nations and UDHR → Third Wave of Human Rights (rights of the individual/cultural rights), Cold War/Proxy Wars, Nationalism/Decolonization continued study, modern topics (student choice)
