Unit 1a- Reading

Interpreting Characters: The Heart of the Story

Summary and Rationale

The Interpreting Characters Unit's primary focus is to launch students back into what matters most: for students to be intense readers. Students will become responsible for choosing their own books and take responsibility for keeping track of their reading. This unit highlights the Character and encourages students to create mental movies of what they are reading. Students will build substantial ideas grounded in evidence, not lightweight ideas. Students will notice the other story elements, objects, etc. and understand how they help build their interpretations of the whole text.

Bend 1 focuses on developing the structures, routines and habits of reading workshop, and the importance retelling a story chronologically or to summarize. During this bend, teachers will establish purposeful partnerships, based upon TC running records assessments, matching partners according to reading level. If you feel your students need a few additional launching lessons prior to starting this bend, you may want to select a few extra lessons from the launching reading workshop resources in the resource section below. Bend 2 emphasizes how readers think about the characters in more complex ways by drawing evidence-based conclusions. Bend 3 shifts the student's focus from studying characters to building interpretations of the whole text, by connecting ideas to form interpretations that are supported across the whole text.

Standards

Reading: Literature

RL.4.1	Refer to details and examples in a text and make relevant connections when explaining what the text says explicitly and when drawing inferences from the text. (Lessons 1-18)
RL.4.2	Determine the key details to identify theme in a story, drama, or poem and summarize the text. (Lessons 2-18)
RL.4.3	Describe in depth a character, setting, or event in a story or drama, drawing on specific details in the text (e.g., a character's thoughts, words, or actions). (Lessons 1-18)
RL.4.4	Determine the meaning of words and phrases as they are used in a text, including those that allude to significant characters found in literature. (Lessons 6,7,9,10,11,13,14,15, 18)
RL.4.5	Explain major differences between poems, drama, and prose, and refer to the structural elements of poems (e.g., verse, rhythm, meter) and drama (e.g., casts of characters, settings, descriptions, dialogue, stage directions) when writing or speaking about a text. (Lessons 14,15,18)

RL.4.10	By the end of the year, read and comprehend literature, including stories, dramas, and poems at grade level text-complexity or above, with scaffolding as needed. (Lessons 2-7 and 16-19)
Reading: Informational Text
Reading: Foundational Skills
RF4.3	Know and apply grade-level phonics and word analysis skills in decoding and encoding words. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a.) Use combined knowledge of all letter-sound correspondences, syllabication patterns, and morphology (e.g., roots and affixes) to read accurately unfamiliar multisyllabic words in context and out of context.
RF.4.4	Read with sufficient accuracy and fluency to support comprehension. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a.) Read grade-level text with purpose and understanding. b.) Read grade-level prose and poetry orally with accuracy, appropriate rate, and expression. c.) Use context to confirm or self-correct word recognition and understanding, rereading as necessary.
Speaking and Listening
SL.4.1	Engage effectively in a range of collaborative discussions (one-on-one, in groups, and teacher-led) with diverse partners on grade 4 topics and texts, building on others' ideas and expressing their own clearly. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a.) Explicitly draw on previously read text or material and other information known about the topic to explore ideas under discussion. b.) Follow agreed-upon rules for discussions and carry out assigned roles. co.) Pose and respond to specific questions to clarify or follow up on information, and make comments that contribute to the discussion and link to the remarks of others. d.) Review the key ideas expressed and explain their own ideas and understanding in light of the discussion.
SL.4.4	Report on a topic or text, tell a story, or recount an experience in an organized manner, using appropriate facts and relevant, descriptive details to support main ideas or themes; speak clearly at an understandable pace.
SL.4.6	Differentiate between contexts that call for formal English (e.g., presenting ideas) and situations where informal discourse is appropriate (e.g., small-group discussion); use formal English when appropriate to task and situation.
Language
L.4.3	Use knowledge of language and its conventions when writing, speaking, reading, or listening. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a.) Choose words and phrases to convey ideas precisely. b.) Choose punctuation for effect. c.) Differentiate between contexts that call for formal English (e.g., presenting ideas) and situations where informal discourse is appropriate (e.g., small-group discussion).

L.4.4	Determine or clarify the meaning of unknown and multiple-meaning words and phrases based on grade 4 reading and content, choosing flexibly from a range of strategies. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • a.) Use context (e.g., definitions, examples, or restatements in text) as a clue to the meaning of a word or phrase. • b.) Use common, grade-appropriate Greek and Latin affixes and roots as clues to the meaning of a word (e.g., telegraph, photograph, autograph). • c.) Consult reference materials (e.g., dictionaries, glossaries, thesauruses), both print and digital, to find the pronunciation and determine or clarify the precise meaning of keywords and phrases.
L.4.5	Demonstrate understanding of figurative language, word relationships, and nuances in word meanings. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • a.) Explain the meaning of simple similes and metaphors (e.g., as pretty as a picture) in context. • b.) Recognize and explain the meaning of common idioms, adages, and proverbs. • c.) Demonstrate understanding of words by relating them to their opposites (antonyms) and to words with similar but not identical meanings (synonyms).
Interdisciplinary Connections
Social studies
6.1.P.A.1	Demonstrate an understanding of rules by following most classroom routines. (Sessions 1-19)
6.1.P.A.2	Demonstrate responsibility by initiating simple classroom tasks and jobs. (Sessions 1-19)
6.1.P.A.3	Demonstrate appropriate behavior when collaborating with others. (Sessions 1-19)
6.1.4.D.19	Explain how experiences and events may be interpreted differently by people with different cultural or individual perspectives. (Session 12 & 13)
6.1.4.D.20	Describe why it is important to understand the perspectives of other cultures in an interconnected world
Science
5.1.4.A.2	Use outcomes of investigations to build and refine questions, models, and explanations.
5.1.4.B.1	Design and follow simple plans using systematic observations to explore questions and predictions.
5.1.4.B.2	Measure, gather, evaluate, and share evidence using tools and technologies.
5.1.4.B.3	Formulate explanations from evidence.

5.1.4.B.4	Communicate and justify explanations with reasonable and logical arguments.
5.1.4.C.1	Monitor and reflect on one’s own knowledge regarding how ideas change over time.
5.1.4.C.2	Revise predictions or explanations on the basis of learning new information.
5.1.4.D.1	Actively participate in discussions about student data, questions, and understandings.
5.1.4.D.2	Work collaboratively to pose, refine, and evaluate questions, investigations, models, and theories.
Social Justice
DI.3-5.7	I have accurate, respectful words to describe how I am similar to and different from people who share my identities

Objectives (SLO)

Launching Reading Workshop

Prior to beginning this unit, you should spend a week launching reading workshop with your students. This is a great time to spend some time building excitement for reading and setting expectations, routines, and procedures. To support you with planning, you may want to generate ideas from the link below.

- Ideas for Launching Reading Workshop

Students will know: (Goals)

Students will be able to: (Teaching Points)

BEND I: Establishing a Reading Life

Goal: Readers build reading lives.

Suggestions for Differentiation

Conferring/Small Group Instruction

(This list can be used to provide accommodations, modifications, and/or extensions for individual students.)

- Channel students to be nose-in-the-book readers. (Session 1)
- Make assessment as efficient as possible. (Session 2)
- Continue to assess and use every means possible to get the right books to resistant readers. (Session 3)
- Scaffold children's retelling. (Session 4)
- Assess and develop envisioning skills. (Session 5)
- Support students to lift the level of their work with Envisioning and Character Traits. (Session 6)

- Readers will learn to grow solid, grounded ideas, by reading intensely, aware that everything counts. (Session 1 pg 4-12)
- Readers choose books they can read fluently and understand well. (Session 2 pg 13-20)
- Assessment Day: This day is dedicated to assessment (see assessment section for unit 1 pre-assessment)
- Readers will work together to devise systems and procedures to help them find books they want to read (Session 3: Student-driven Inquiry Lesson pg 22-30)
Suggested Inquiries:
 - How can we create a system in our classroom that will help all of the readers in ____ (your class) find books they want to read?
 - How could Book Talks help us to create a system to find books we want to read?
- Readers retell only the part they just read and summarize the earlier parts that lead up to this part. (Session 4 pg 31-41)
- Readers envision their stories using all their senses not just their eyes, seeing & hearing inside the text (Session 5 pg 42-50)
- Readers set goals to lift the level of their reading work by studying their own thinking and refer to ways to make their thinking even better. (Session 6 pg 51-60)
*use the learning progression.

BEND II: Thinking Deeply About Characters

Goal: Reader's collect evidence, spot patterns, construct ideas, and test those ideas against the evidence.

Suggestions for Differentiation

Conferring/Small Group Instruction

(This list can be used to provide accommodations, modifications, and/or extensions for individual students.)

- Plan for the beginning, middle, and the end of work time. (Session 7)
- Support readers who need help developing ideas. (Session 8)
- Reveal what objects can tell about a character. (Session 9)
- Help students use academic language. (Session 10)
- Support students with observing a character and growing text-based ideas. (Session 11)
- Generate debatable ideas. (Session 12)
- Prepare for debate. (Session 13)

- Readers pay close attention to notice patterns in a character's actions and notice times when the character breaks the pattern. (Session 7 pg 64-72)
- Readers pay special attention to the details that reveal what a character desires (wants), the obstacles (things that get in the way), and their struggles to overcome them. (Session 8 pg 73-82)
- Readers grow big, important ideas about a character by noticing what the author may be calling to their attention by repeating or emphasizing. (Session 9 pg 83-91)
- Readers improve theories about characters by choosing exact, precise, true language that captures their ideas. (Session 10 pg 92 - 102)
 - During this lesson you may want to take time to tie in Diversity Standard DI.3-5.7, I have accurate, respectful words to describe how I am similar to and different from people who share my identities and those who have other identities.
- Readers recognize that characters are complex and may seem one way in certain situations, and then another way in a different context or they may be one way on the outside and another way on the inside. (Session 11 pg 103-112)
- Readers debate differing viewpoints on a provocative question. (Session 12 pg 113 - 121)
(*This lesson may be referred back to later during the book club unit.)
- Readers defend and critique ideas by quoting specific words or sentences from the text that provide evidence for their ideas. (Session 13 pg 122-130)

BEND III: Building Interpretations

Goal: Readers look beyond just the characters in their stories, taking on a variety of reading lenses and piecing together their thoughts to build interpretations.

Suggestions for Differentiation

Conferring/Small Group Instruction

(This list can be used to provide accommodations, modifications, and/or extensions for individual students.)

- Teach the language of literary analysis. (Session 14)
- Grow important details into ideas - and make connections among ideas. (Session 16)

- Readers consider more than just the character when trying to interpret, or make meaning, of a story. (Session 14 132-140)
- Readers pay attention to parts in their book that stick out, and then think across the whole book, deciding how these parts can fit together. (Session 15 pg 141-146)
- Readers push themselves to have deeper thoughts and build interpretations by looking over their thinking throughout the whole book, finding patterns and making connections. (Session 16 pg 147-156)
- Readers think about big life issues that may relate to their book and choose one that fits in with the story. Readers then figure out the message the book is sending about this issue. (Session 17 pg 157-164)

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Expect to scaffold the challenging work of developing central interpretations. (Session 17) • Support students working through the interpretation process. (Session 18) 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Readers develop complex interpretations by paying attention to recurring images, objects and details throughout stories. (Session 18 pg 165-175) • Readers recognize and celebrate the learning that occurs across a unit of study. (Session 19 pg 176-181)

Interactive Read Aloud: The Tiger Rising (Suggested Text)

Follow the pacing guide below to ensure that your readers are prepared for each session ahead of time. There are times you'll read aloud during a mini lesson; however, this will not be when you do the bulk of your read aloud. To keep minilessons brief and maximize independent reading time, your read aloud will take place in a block of time outside of reading workshop.

Unit 1b - Writing

The Arc Of Story: Writing Realistic Fiction

Summary and Rationale

The Writing realistic Fiction unit focuses on getting students to live like writers. This unit will connect what they learned in the past about writing personal narratives, and encourage students to use this knowledge when writing a strong, believable fiction story. Students will create and develop stories with characters that feel real. Students will then draft and revise these stories with an eye toward believability to prepare them for publication with an audience in mind. Students will be expected to become independent realistic writers by the end of the unit.

Bend 1 focuses on helping students live like writers by paying attention to the moments and issues in their lives. Students will collect a variety of small moment stories which could be launched into fictionalized moments, focusing on their character's traits, wants, and needs. During bend one, you may want to include some additional launching lessons of your choosing. These lessons are included in the resource section and can be added into this unit as you see fit. Please do not take longer than two school weeks for these additional launching lessons. At the beginning of this unit, you may want to take 5-10 class days to included some launching writing workshop lessons. See the launching document below in the resources section for ideas Bend 2 emphasizes the need to have a planning strategy (The Story Arc) when drafting their stories. Bend 3 shifts from the student's initial drafting to a more focused drafting process which involves deep revision work, and editing. Bend 4 emphasizes the students independence when tackling their own fiction project. Students will conceive, develop, plan, and carry through their own independent fiction project.

Instructional Focus
Enduring Understandings:	Essential Questions:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Authors live as writers by paying attention to the moments and issues in their lives, collecting small moment ideas to help them start fictionalizing those moments, focusing on character development. Writers streamline their ideas by using the “story arc” by including 2 or 3 strong scenes to successfully show how a character, plot and even setting change over the course of a story. Writers prepare their stories for an audience through more focused drafting, deep revision work, and editing. Writers will independently conceive, develop, plan, and carry through their own fiction stories. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> How do we live as a writer? How do writers streamline their ideas to create a good story? How do writers prepare their stories for an audience? How do writers embark on Independent Fiction Projects? How can writers study and apply grammar moves in mentor sentences to use in their writing?

Objectives (SLO)Launching Writing Workshop

Prior to beginning this unit, you should spend a week launching writing workshop with your students. This is a great time to spend some time building excitement for writing and setting expectations, routines, and procedures. To support you with planning, you may want to generate ideas from the link below.

- Ideas for Launching Writing Workshop

IMPORTANT TIPS FOR IMMERSION:

Before you begin the first bend, teachers should plan time for sharing mentor texts so that students can all explore common texts together and study realistic fiction from a writer's lens. Interactive and shared writing are also important ways for students to see the process of writing realistic fiction.*

Note: In shared writing, the teacher acts as a scribe with student participation and collaboration. In interactive writing, the teacher and student share the pen and write the parts of the text together.

*Have students write in a way that allows students to show off all they know about narrative writing.

- Generate ideas for stories from our lives
- Choose a seed idea and begin to develop a character
- Sketch out a plotline
- Try a story idea and write it out

Grammar/Language Focus

- Use correct capitalization. L.4.2.A
- Order adjectives within sentences according to conventional patterns (e.g., a small red bag rather than a red small bag). L.4.1.D
- Form and use prepositional phrases. L.4.1.E
- Produce complete sentences, recognizing and correcting inappropriate fragments and run-ons. L.4.1.F
- Choose words and phrases to convey ideas precisely. L.4.3.A

The grade level language standards above should be integrated into your planning. You may want to teach grammar mini-lessons to the whole class, small groups, and/or individuals. In addition to the grade level expectations above, students may need additional grammar instruction based upon their individual progress. Please utilize student work to determine what a student knows and is able to do and what a student might need next.

Unit 2a - Reading

Reading the Weather, Reading the World (Unit 2 book)

Summary and Rationale

Reading the Weather, Reading the World unit supports the students in learning the skills that are essential for today's nonfiction readers and researchers- the ability to reason, analyze, weigh evidence, and problem solve. In Bend I, students start by reading easier nonfiction texts and doing important work in them. Then they move to more challenging texts to do the same work in, with some support. In Bend II, students will work in research teams to study topics and subtopics of extreme weather and natural disasters. As researches, they will locate and synthesize information from a variety of texts on topics and come back to teach their peers what they've learned about their topic. In Bend III, research teams will study another topic that is somewhat related to theirs and compare and contrast these topics. This will allow students to notice patterns and relationships between texts and shift their learning from specific related topics (tornadoes or floods) to learning about their bigger field of knowledge (extreme weather).

Recommended Pacing

6-8 weeks (November/December)

Standards

Reading: Informational Text

RI.4.1	Refer to details and examples in a text and make relevant connections when explaining what the text says explicitly and when drawing inferences from the text.
RI.4.2	Determine the main idea of a text and explain how it is supported by key details; summarize the text.
RI.4.3	Explain events, procedures, ideas, or concepts in a historical, scientific, or technical text, including what happened and why, based on specific information in the text.
RI.4.4	Determine the meaning of general academic and domain-specific words or phrases in a text relevant to a grade 4 topic or subject area.
RI.4.5	Describe the overall structure (e.g., chronology, comparison, cause/effect, problem/solution) of events, ideas, concepts, or information in a text or part of a text.
RI.4.6	Compare and contrast a firsthand and secondhand account of the same event or topic; describe the differences in focus and the information provided.
RI.4.7	Interpret information presented visually, orally, or quantitatively (e.g., in charts, graphs, diagrams, time lines, animations, or interactive elements on Web pages) and explain how the information contributes to an understanding of the text in which it appears

RI.4.8	Explain how an author uses reasons and evidence to support particular points in a text.
RI.4.9	Integrate and reflect on (e.g. practical knowledge, historical/cultural context, and background knowledge) information from two texts on the same topic in order to write or speak about the subject knowledgeably.
RI.4.10	By the end of year, read and comprehend literary nonfiction at grade level text-complexity or above, with scaffolding as needed.
Writing
W.4.7	Conduct short research projects that build knowledge through investigation of different aspects of a topic
W.4.8.	Recall relevant information from experiences or gather relevant information from print and digital sources; take notes and categorize information, and provide a list of sources.
W.4.9.	Draw evidence from literary or informational texts to support analysis, reflection, and research. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • a.) Apply grade 4 Reading standards to literature (e.g., “Describe in depth a character, setting, or event in a story or drama, drawing on specific details in the text [e.g., a character’s thoughts, words, or actions].”). • b.) Apply grade 4 Reading standards to informational texts (e.g., “Explain how an author uses reasons and evidence to support particular points in a text”).
Speaking and Listening
SL.4.1	Engage effectively in a range of collaborative discussions (one-on-one, in groups, and teacher-led) with diverse partners on grade 4 topics and texts, building on others’ ideas and expressing their own clearly. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> A. Explicitly draw on previously read text or material and other information known about the topic to explore ideas under discussion. B. Follow agreed-upon rules for discussions and carry out assigned roles. C. Pose and respond to specific questions to clarify or follow up on information, and make comments that contribute to the discussion and link to the remarks of others. D. Review the key ideas expressed and explain their own ideas and understanding in light of the discussion.
SL.4.2	Paraphrase portions of a text read aloud or information presented in diverse media and formats (e.g.,visually, quantitatively, and orally).
SL.4.3	Identify the reasons and evidence a speaker provides to support particular points.
SL.4.4	Report on a topic or text, tell a story, or recount an experience in an organized manner, using appropriate facts and relevant, descriptive details to support main ideas or themes; speak clearly at an understandable pace.
Language

L.4.4	Determine or clarify the meaning of unknown and multiple-meaning words and phrases based on grade 4 reading and content, choosing flexibly from a range of strategies. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a.) Use context (e.g., definitions, examples, or restatements in text) as a clue to the meaning of a word or phrase. b.) Use common, grade-appropriate Greek and Latin affixes and roots as clues to the meaning of a word (e.g., telegraph, photograph, autograph). c.) Consult reference materials (e.g., dictionaries, glossaries, thesauruses), both print and digital, to find the pronunciation and determine or clarify the precise meaning of keywords and phrases.
L.4.6	Acquire and use accurately grade-appropriate general academic and domain-specific words and phrases, including those that signal precise actions, emotions, or states of being (e.g., quizzed, whined, stammered) and that are basic to a particular topic (e.g., wildlife, conservation, and endangered when discussing animal preservation).
Interdisciplinary Connections
Science
5.1.4.A.2	Use outcomes of investigations to build and refine questions, models, and explanations.
5.1.4.B.1	Design and follow simple plans using systematic observations to explore questions and predictions.
5.1.4.B.2	Measure, gather, evaluate, and share evidence using tools and technologies.
5.1.4.B.3	Formulate explanations from evidence.
5.1.4.C.1	Monitor and reflect on one's own knowledge regarding how ideas change over time.
5.1.4.C.2	Revise predictions or explanations on the basis of learning new information.
5.1.4.D.1	Actively participate in discussions about student data, questions, and understandings.
5.1.4.D.2	Work collaboratively to pose, refine, and evaluate questions, investigations, models, and theories.
5.1.4.B.4	Communicate and justify explanations with reasonable and logical arguments.
Integration of Technology
8.1.5.A.1	Select and use the appropriate digital tools and resources to accomplish a variety of tasks including solving problems
8.1.5.A.2	Format a document using a word processing application to enhance text and include graphics, symbols and/ or pictures.

Goal: Researchers read closely to research and synthesize information from varied nonfiction texts.

Suggestions for Differentiation

Conferring/Small Group Instruction

(This list can be used to provide accommodations, modifications, and/or extensions for individual students.)

- Support critically important work, reading with awareness of text structures, (Session 8)
- Transition students from planning to previewing to getting to work. (Session 9)
- Nurture thoughtful responses to nonfiction reading. (Session 11)
- Tackle complex texts through small-group work. (Session 12)

- Researchers organize and plan for the journey ahead. (Session 8: minilesson)
- Researchers synthesize across a text by reading multiple texts on a subtopic and then asking themselves “Does this add to what I’ve already learned? Changed what I learned?” (Session 9: minilesson)
- Researchers use various types of texts and strategies to gather information. (Session 10: minilesson)
 - This session is devoted to students researching in their teams and draw on everything they have learned about their topic so far.
- Researchers use writing to grow their ideas about their research topics (Session 11: minilesson)
- Researchers tackle complex, technical passages head-on by rereading small parts, thinking about what these parts are teaching, and using talk and writing to explain their ideas. (Session 12: minilesson)
- Researchers help others grow their knowledge by teaching each other all about their learning. (Session 13: minilesson)

BEND III: Tackling a Second Research Project with More Agency and Power

Goal: Readers identify patterns across multiple texts and share their thoughts and opinions with others.

Suggestions for Differentiation

Conferring/Small Group Instruction

(This list can be used to provide accommodations, modifications, and/or extensions for individual students.)

- Get research groups underway. (Session 14)
- Balance on-going work with new-thinking. (Session 15)
- Help students to elaborate as they compare and contrast. (Session 16)
- Support students as they continue to read for a text's main ideas while reading with their own agenda. (Session 17)
- Support readers who may struggle in determining facts versus opinions; further evaluation skills. (Session 18)
- Support students as they compare and contrasts across texts. (Session 19)

- Researchers often move from studying one example of something to studying a second example, comparing and contrasting the ways they are similar and different. (Session 14: minilesson)
- Researchers move from studying specific topics to thinking about patterns and relationships across the bigger topics that it relates to. (Session 15: minilesson)
- Researchers form inquiries as they come across new topics and information. They then read on to investigate these questions. (Session 16: minilesson)
- Researchers develop their own agendas (plans) related to their topics and then bring these with them as they read. (Session 17: minilesson) Teachers may wish to make this a separate lesson, or keep as one:
 - Sometimes, readers' agendas do not match up to how the text is organized or the author's purpose, so researchers must reorganize their information.
- Researchers evaluate the credibility and trustworthiness of sources. (Session 18: minilesson)
- Researchers think about the decisions nonfiction writers make and notice the ways the authors want the readers to think or feel about a topic. (Session 19: minilesson)
- Researchers analyze published texts to consider techniques that authors use to present and share information. (Session 20: minilesson)
- Researchers celebrate their hard work by presenting their research project. (Session 21: minilesson)

- Work productively in teams while using cultural/global competence

Unit 2b - Writing
Up the Ladder: Informational Writing
Summary and Rationale

This unit provides students with lots of opportunities to write information texts on topics of personal expertise. The unit helps students envision the larger topic of an information text as being comprised of smaller subtopics, and to write about each of those subtopics separately, bucketing them. Students are given repeated opportunities to practice doing this work and a handful of planning and revision strategies to help them. They also learn to write with concrete, specific information and to elaborate, saying more about kernels of information. The goal of the unit is to accelerate students' growth in this genre while also helping them build their identities as writers and their volume of writing. Above all, the unit aims to help youngsters learn to love writing.

Recommended Pacing

6-8 weeks (March/April)

Standards

Reading: Informational Text

RI4.1	Refer to details and examples in a text when explaining what the text says explicitly and when drawing inferences from the text.
RI4.2	Determine the main idea of a text and explain how it is supported by key details; summarize the text.
RI4.3	Explain events, procedures, ideas, or concepts in a historical, scientific, or technical text, including what happened and why, based on specific information in the text.
RI4.5	Describe the overall structure (e.g., chronology, comparison, cause/effect, problem/solution) of events, ideas, concepts, or information in a text or part of a text.
RI4.8	Explain how an author uses reasons and evidence to support particular points in a text.
RI4.9	Integrate information from two texts on the same topic in order to write or speak about the subject knowledgeably

Speaking and Listening

SL4.1	Engage effectively in a range of collaborative discussions (one-on-one, in groups, and teacher-led) with diverse partners on grade 4 topics and texts, building on others' ideas and expressing their own clearly. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Come to discussions prepared, having read or studied required material; explicitly draw on that preparation and other information known about the topic to explore ideas under discussion. • Follow agreed-upon rules for discussions and carry out assigned roles. • Pose and respond to specific questions to clarify or follow up on information, and make comments that contribute to the discussion and link to the remarks of others. • Review the key ideas expressed and explain their own ideas and understanding in light of the discussion.

SL4.2	Paraphrase portions of a text read aloud or information presented in diverse media and formats, including visually, quantitatively, and orally.
SL4.4	Report on a topic or text, tell a story, or recount an experience in an organized manner, using appropriate facts and relevant, descriptive details to support main ideas or themes; speak clearly at an understandable pace.
SL4.5	Add audio recordings and visual displays to presentations when appropriate to enhance the development of main ideas or themes.
Writing
W4.2	Write informative/explanatory texts to examine a topic and convey ideas and information clearly. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • a.) Introduce a topic clearly and group related information in paragraphs and sections; include formatting (e.g., headings), illustrations, and multimedia when useful to aiding comprehension. • b.) Develop the topic with facts, definitions, concrete details, text evidence, or other information and examples related to the topic. • c.) Link ideas within paragraphs and sections of information using words and phrases (e.g., another, for example, also, because). • d.) Use precise language and domain-specific vocabulary to inform about or explain the topic. • e.). Provide a conclusion related to the information or explanation presented.
W4.5	With guidance and support from peers and adults, develop and strengthen writing as needed by planning, revising, and editing.
W4.7	Conduct short research projects that build knowledge through investigation of different aspects of a topic.
W4.8	Recall relevant information from experiences or gather relevant information from print and digital sources; take notes and categorize information, and provide a list of sources
W4.9	Draw evidence from literary or informational texts to support analysis, reflection, and research. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • a.) Apply grade 4 Reading standards to literature (e.g., “Describe in depth a character, setting, or event in a story or drama, drawing on specific details in the text [e.g., a character’s thoughts, words, or actions].”). • b.) Apply grade 4 Reading standards to informational texts (e.g., “Explain how an author uses reasons and evidence to support particular points in a text”).
W4.10	Write routinely over extended time frames (time for research, reflection, and revision) and shorter time frames (a single sitting or a day or two) for a range of discipline-specific tasks, purposes, and audiences.
Language
L.4.1.	Demonstrate command of the conventions of standard English grammar and usage when writing or speaking. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • a.) Use relative pronouns (who, whose, whom, which, that) and relative adverbs (where, when, why).

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • b.) Form and use the progressive (e.g., I was walking; I am walking; I will be walking) verb tenses. • c.) Use modal auxiliaries (e.g., can, may, must) to convey various conditions. • d.) Order adjectives within sentences according to conventional patterns (e.g., a small red bag rather than a red small bag). • e.) Form and use prepositional phrases. • f.) Produce complete sentences, recognizing and correcting inappropriate fragments and run-ons.* • g.) Correctly use frequently confused words (e.g., to, too, two; there, their).*
L.4.2.	Demonstrate command of the conventions of standard English capitalization, punctuation, and spelling when writing. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • a.) Use correct capitalization. • b.) Use commas and quotation marks to mark direct speech and quotations from a text. • c.) Use a comma before a coordinating conjunction in a compound sentence. • d.) Spell grade-appropriate words correctly, consulting references as needed.
L.4.3. a.b	Use knowledge of language and its conventions when writing, speaking, reading, or listening. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • a.) Choose words and phrases to convey ideas precisely. • b.) Choose punctuation for effect. • c.) Differentiate between contexts that call for formal English (e.g., presenting ideas) and situations where informal discourse is appropriate (e.g., small-group discussion).
L.4.4 a	Determine or clarify the meaning of unknown and multiple-meaning words and phrases based on grade 4 reading and content, choosing flexibly from a range of strategies. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • a.) Use context (e.g., definitions, examples, or restatements in text) as a clue to the meaning of a word or phrase. • b.) Use common, grade-appropriate Greek and Latin affixes and roots as clues to the meaning of a word (e.g., telegraph, photograph, autograph). • c.) Consult reference materials (e.g., dictionaries, glossaries, thesauruses), both print and digital, to find the pronunciation and determine or clarify the precise meaning of key-words and phrases.
L.4.6	Acquire and use accurately grade-appropriate general academic and domain-specific words and phrases, including those that signal precise actions, emotions, or states of being (e.g., quizzed, whined, stammered) and that are basic to a particular topic (e.g., wildlife, conservation, and endangered when discussing animal preservation).

The grade level language standards above should be integrated into your planning. You may want to teach grammar mini-lessons to the whole class, small groups, and/or individuals. In addition to the grade level expectations above, students may need additional grammar instruction based upon their individual progress. Please utilize student work to determine what a student knows and is able to do and what a student might need next.

Students will know: (Goals)	Students will be able to: (Teaching point)
Bend 1: Writing Lots of Books that Teach Goal: Writers create different books to teach their readers about topics of expertise. Grammar Goals: Writers use coordinating conjunctions and a comma to form compound sentences. Grammar note: Each grammar lesson is a five day cycle. The placing is approximate, but the goal is to complete lessons 5-7 of Patterns of Power during unit 2B. IMMERSION Before beginning the mini lessons/sessions, teachers should take a few days to immerse students in informational writing. They should read some informational texts, discuss the qualities of informational writing, how it is structured, and begin to do a shared writing piece together. They could begin by generating some class ideas of topics that 4th graders know about. Then, the teacher could introduce boxes and bullets during shared writing. Then, they could write one chapter together.	Writers plan how their information books will go. (Session 1, p. 6) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Think of a topic. • Touch and tell a page. • Sketch what you will write. • Write the page. • Repeat the process with the next page. Writers use a comma and an “and” to join two sentences (Patterns of Power Lesson 5 - 5 days). Writers of information books work to teach readers something new and interesting on each page. (Session 2, pg. 14) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Return to the draft. • Ask: “Who, what, where, and why?” questions. • Answer the questions by adding more information to each page. Writers use specifics and not just generalizations writing with exact names, numbers, colors, sizes, shapes, and quotes. (Session 3, pg. 22) Writers reread their writing with the eyes of a stranger, and use what they see to improve what’s on their pages. (Session 4, pg. 30) Information writers make their introductions special. (Session 5, pg. 38) Writers draw on all they know about good information writing when they write and revise. (Session 6, pg. 46) Writers use a comma and one of the FANBOYS to join sentences (Patterns of Power Lesson 6 - 5 days). Writers prepare to publish by rereading their writing, looking for run-on sentences and adding punctuation to make their writing easier to read. (Session 7, pg. 56) Writers celebrate their work by presenting it to others. (Session 8, pg. 64)

Bend 2: Writing Chapter Books that Teach with Organization and Detail Goal: Writers utilize organization and detail to create meaningful chapter books. Grammar Goals: Writers use adverbs to convey frequency.	Writers organize their information and ideas into categories, once they have a topic. (Session 9, pg. 69) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> These categories become individual chapters, parts and paragraphs. Writers get ready to write by teaching (or pretending to teach) their topic to a partner. (Session 10, pg. 78) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Think: “How can I interest this particular student/reader?” Writers use adverbs to tell how often. Modifications

Please note: The teaching points above may be taught to the whole class, small groups, or individual students. They do not have to be taught in order. Teachers should utilize the pre-assessment and formative assessments in class to inform their instructional planning. They should be taught in Minilessons, Conferences, Strategy Groups, Shared Reading, Interactive Read Aloud, or Shared Writing.

NOTES FOR DIFFERENTIATION: These suggestions can be used to support students who need accommodations, modifications, and/or extensions.

If these objectives are utilized as whole class lessons, students do not have to all be in the same place as readers. The teacher should provide a whole class, mini-lesson, and then invite students to continue working on reading at their own pace. Some students might apply this lesson to their reading work on the same day, but the others may be in different places in their instruction so they should work on what they need. If need be, the teacher may have to pull small groups and/or confer with writers depending on where they are in the process. These lessons can be recycled or provided for a second time to support students in small groups that might need additional practice or guidance. Additionally, readers who are ready for challenges, should be provided with additional instruction in small groups.

Unit 3a- Reading
Detail and Synthesis: Close Reading of Fiction
Summary and Rationale
“The goal of this unit is to support kids reading up a storm, reading books that matter to them, and moving up levels of text complexity, while working on strengthening skills that were taught in Unit 1, especially inference and interpretation. The unit helps kids use their earlier instruction around character and theme with greater independence as they read their own increasingly challenging books. Furthermore, the unit brings them closer to the demands of the high-stakes tests—encouraging them to cite text evidence to back up their ideas and to elaborate on details in partnership conversations. This unit also supports students with analyzing parts of a story in relation to the whole and interpreting fiction texts with more depth.” To support the synthesis work, students should choose books that go together or read with a partner.

“The first bend of this unit roughly parallels the writing unit in that it focuses on reading with an awareness of character. The second bend focuses more on theme, which is important in Bend II of the writing unit. Bend III parallels the writing unit as well, since it supports compare-and-contrast work across texts.”

Recommended Pacing

6-8 weeks (March/April)

Standards

Reading: Literature

RL.4.1.	Refer to details and examples in a text and make relevant connections when explaining what the text says explicitly and when drawing inferences from the text.
RL.4.2.	Determine a theme of a story, drama, or poem from details in the text; summarize the text.
RL.4.3.	Describe in depth a character, setting, or event in a story or drama, drawing on specific details in the text (e.g., a character’s thoughts, words, or actions).
RL.4.4.	Determine the meaning of words and phrases as they are used in a text, including those that allude to significant characters found in literature
RL.4.5.	Explain major differences between poems, drama, and prose, and refer to the structural elements of poems (e.g., verse, rhythm, meter) and drama (e.g., casts of characters, settings, descriptions, dialogue, stage directions) when writing or speaking about a text.
RL.4.6.	Compare and contrast the point of view from which different stories are narrated, including the difference between first- and third-person narrations.
RL.4.9.	Compare, contrast and reflect on (e.g. practical knowledge, historical/cultural context, and background knowledge genre (e.g., mysteries and adventure stories) on their approaches to similar themes and topics.
RL.4.10.	By the end of the year, read and comprehend literature, including stories, dramas, and poems at grade level text-complexity or above, with scaffolding as needed.

Reading: Foundational Skills

RF.4.3.	Know and apply grade-level phonics and word analysis skills in decoding and encoding words. A. Use combined knowledge of all letter-sound correspondences, syllabication patterns, and morphology (e.g., roots and affixes) to read accurately unfamiliar multisyllabic words in context and out of context.

RF.4.4.	Read with sufficient accuracy and fluency to support comprehension. A. Read grade-level text with purpose and understanding. B. Read grade-level prose and poetry orally with accuracy, appropriate rate, and expression. C. Refer to details and examples in a text and make relevant connections when explaining what the text says explicitly and when drawing inferences from the text. D. Use context to confirm or self-correct word recognition and understanding, rereading as necessary.
Writing
W.4.1.	Write opinion pieces on topics or texts, supporting a point of view with reasons and information. A. Introduce a topic or text clearly, state an opinion, and create an organizational structure in which related ideas are grouped to support the writer's purpose. B. Provide reasons that are supported by facts from texts and/or other sources. C. Link opinion and reasons using words and phrases (e.g., for instance, in order to, in addition). D. Provide a conclusion related to the opinion presented.
W.4.2.	Write informative/explanatory texts to examine a topic and convey ideas and information clearly. A. Introduce a topic clearly and group related information in paragraphs and sections; include formatting (e.g., headings), illustrations, and multimedia when useful to aiding comprehension. B. Develop the topic with facts, definitions, concrete details, text evidence, or other information and examples related to the topic. C. Link ideas within paragraphs and sections of information using words and phrases (e.g., another, for example, also, because). D. Use precise language and domain-specific vocabulary to inform about or explain the topic. E. Provide a conclusion related to the information or explanation presented.
W.4.7.	Conduct short research projects that build knowledge through investigation of different aspects of a topic.
W.4.8.	Recall relevant information from experiences or gather relevant information from print and digital sources; take notes and categorize information, and provide a list of sources.
W.4.9.	Draw evidence from literary or informational texts to support analysis, reflection, and research. A. Apply grade 4 Reading standards to literature (e.g., "Describe in depth a character, setting, or event in a story or drama, drawing on specific details in the text [e.g., a character's thoughts, words, or actions]."). B. Apply grade 4 Reading standards to informational texts (e.g., "Explain how an author uses reasons and evidence to support particular points in a text").
Speaking and Listening
SL.4.1.	Engage effectively in a range of collaborative discussions (one-on-one, in groups, and teacher-led) with diverse partners on grade 4 topics and texts, building on others' ideas and expressing their own clearly. A. Explicitly draw on previously read text or material and other information known about the topic to explore ideas under discussion. B. Follow agreed-upon rules for discussions and carry out assigned roles. C. Pose and respond to specific questions to clarify or follow up on information, and make comments that contribute to the discussion and link to the remarks of others. D. Review the key ideas expressed and explain their own ideas and understanding in light of the discussion.
SL.4.2.	Paraphrase portions of a text read aloud or information presented in diverse media and formats (e.g., visually, quantitatively, and orally).
SL.4.4.	Report on a topic or text, tell a story, or recount an experience in an organized manner, using appropriate facts and relevant, descriptive details to support main ideas or themes; speak clearly at an understandable pace.

Interdisciplinary Connections
Social Studies
6.1.4.D.4	Explain how key events led to the creation of the United States and the state of New Jersey.
6.1.4.D.5	Relate key historical documents (i.e., the Mayflower Compact, the Declaration of Independence, the United States Constitution, and the Bill of Rights) to present day government and citizenship.
6.1.4.D.6	Describe the civic leadership qualities and historical contributions of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, and Benjamin Franklin toward the development of the United States government.
6.1.4.D.8	Determine the significance of New Jersey's role in the American Revolution.
Integration of Technology

Objectives (SLO)

Students will know:

Students will be able to:

BEND I: Making More of Details to Grow Bigger Ideas about Characters

Goal: Readers grow bigger ideas about characters.

Readers pay attention to what they usually do and think by asking questions.

- “What am I doing that works?”
- “How do I do an even better job at that?” (Session 1)

Readers pay attention to not only what they tend to DO but also what they DON’T tend to do when reading. When readers notice the things they don’t tend to do, they can work to get better at those things.

- When making a jot, notice what thinking you did and did not do as a reader.
- Name what you didn’t do when you were reading.
- Think: If I begin to do this work, will it enrich my reading? Will I become a better reader? (Session 2)

Readers revise their thinking as they reread important parts, by replacing old ideas with better ones.

- Plan to change your first ideas by rereading and rethinking.
- Reread some important parts of your chapter book, bringing a new lens and letting your ideas change.
- Come up with deeper or smarter ideas about your character. (Session 3)

Readers try to understand why a character changed by going back to the parts of the book that led up to the change and hunting for the seeds or causes.

- Notice the exact moment a character in your book changes- jot about how the character changed.
- Pause to think: What were they like before? What are they like now?
- Ask, Why did the character change? What caused the change?
- Go back and reread carefully, noting the moments that show the cause of the change. (Session 4)

Readers grow bigger ideas about a text by listening to what others think, asking questions to learn more and rereading to see if they can find the answers.

- Listen super hard to truly understand what your partner is thinking about the book.
- Ask questions, such as, “Where did you get that idea?”, “Why...?” or “How...?”
- If the question is tricky to answer, go back and reread together and help your partner grow his/her ideas. (Session 5)

Readers closely study parts of a text that seem disconnected and consider how those parts might fit together.

- Create a theory or idea about your character.
- Look closely for clues from parts of the story that support your ideas about your character.
- Think: “How could these clues I might pass over be related to the characters?”
- Remember: authors do things on purpose- all the clues they leave are meant to help you understand the story and the characters more. (Session 6)

Readers consider the parts of a story and how authors make choices about those parts to develop deeper ideas.

- Readers can look back at these parts and ask, “Why might the author have included this? What might it have to do with the big change the characters go through?” (Session 7)

BEND II: Finding and Tracking Themes Across a Story

Goal: Readers find and track themes across a story.

Readers figure out the life lesson of a book by noticing the struggles a character is facing, and then asking, “What is my character learning?” and considering possible lessons.

- Reread a part of the text where you notice the struggles the character is facing to figure out the life lessons.
- Think: “What is my character learning?”
- Use the clues the author leaves to figure out what the life lesson might be.
- What might I learn from this part? (Session 8)

Readers also discover themes in their books by studying their character’s behaviors. Readers can notice places where the character does or says something that surprised them and wonder why the character might have done that. Then, readers try to determine a theme based on that reason.

- Look for a surprising moment where the character says or does something you didn’t expect.
- Think: Why did the character act the way he or she did?
- Turn the reason into a possible theme for the book, one that can also apply to anyone in life.
- And ask, “What might this teach me as a reader?” (Session 9)

Readers get to know minor characters and pay close attention to the way they interact with the main characters and think about reasons why the author included them, considering that often minor characters connect with a theme.

- As you read, pay attention to not just the main characters, but also the minor characters.
- Think: “Why did the author put these characters in the story? Why are they important to the story?”
- Look at the minor characters in your story as something purposeful:
 - Minor character brings out something about the main character
 - Minor character teaches the main character something
 - Minor character is the cause of a problem (Session 10)

Readers write mini essays in their minds by developing a big idea about what a story teaches them by finding supporting details across the text.

- Think of a life lesson from your book-- a big idea.
- Recall details from the beginning, middle and end--the specific moments in the text that pop out or show the life lesson that could support your claim.
- Use different characters to also help you locate the big lessons the author is teaching you.
- Think, “This story teaches me...” to start an essay in your mind.
- Continue with gathering evidence, “It teaches me this in this part, this in this part, this in this part.” (Session 11)

BEND III: Comparing and Contrasting Themes Across Texts

Goal: Readers compare and contrast themes across texts.

Readers pay close attention when characters face similar problems. When this happens, readers can look closely at how each character reacts to and solves those problems because it usually teaches us about the characters. (Session 13)

- Think about the problems the character in your book is facing.
- Ask: “Is there another story where a character faces a similar problem?”
- Ask: “What is different about how the problems are resolved?”
- Think about what these differences teach us about how the characters are different.

Additional Teaching Points for Bend III

Readers pay attention to common issues or situations that characters experience and how they respond to them in similar and different ways..

- Show a chart of common issues and situations that characters experience.
- Ask: “How do the characters respond in similar ways?”
- Ask: “How do the characters respond in different ways?” (Session 14)

Readers think more deeply about two texts with similar themes by rereading each text and noting how the each theme is supported and how that makes the theme different in the two texts.

- Tell how the themes are the same.
- Tell how the theme is developed in text 1.
- Tell how the theme is developed in text 2.
- Tell how the texts are different when it comes to theme. (Session 15)

Readers pay attention to the point of view that a story is told from. When comparing and contrasting two stories, it’s worth it to think, “What is the point of view of the character/ narrator in one story? How is that similar to another story?”

- Read a story and think, “Who is telling this story (whose point of view is it from)?”
- Read a second story and think, “Who is telling this story (whose point of view is it from)?”
- Compare the stories. How is the point of view similar? How is the point of view different? (Session 16)

Today you’ll celebrate the learning students have done throughout this unit. You might plan a celebration that highlights the learning that readers don’t just make connections between texts. They also make connections between the text and their own life. When readers connect to a character or a problem or a moment in a text, they can learn things from that text that help you live differently.

(Session 17)

- Ask, “What is a problem or moment from the story that is similar to something in my own life?”
- Think: What can I learn from this problem or moment to help me live differently?

- Hot Day on Abbott Avenue by Karen English (we strongly encourage you to get ahold of the actual book as the pictures are crucial)
- Fox by Margaret Wild (also used in The Literary Essay: Writing aboutFiction)

Bend III:

- Choose higher-level texts that will support your students in comparing and contrasting across texts. Your students will need to be familiar with these texts in advance. Some texts we especially recommend referencing include: Fox by Margaret Wild; Nubs: The True Story of a Mutt, a Marine, and a Miracle by Brian Dennis, Kirby Larson, and Mary Nethery; and The Tiger Rising by Kate DiCamillo.
- If your students are familiar with Because of Winn-Dixie (from Grade 3, Unit 3 Character Studies) and The Tiger Rising (from Grade 4, Unit 1 Interpreting Characters), you might use these two texts to support compare-and-contrast work. Both texts are by Kate DiCamillo and are rich with similarities and differences.

Modifications

Please note: The teaching points above may be taught to the whole class, small groups, or individual students. They do not have to be taught in order. Teachers should utilize the pre-assessment and formative assessments in class to inform their instructional planning. They should be taught in Minilessons, Conferences, Strategy Groups, Shared Reading, Interactive Read Aloud, or Shared Writing.

NOTES FOR DIFFERENTIATION: These suggestions can be used to support students who need accommodations, modifications, and/or extensions.

If these objectives are utilized as whole class lessons, students do not have to all be in the same place as readers. The teacher should provide a whole class, mini-lesson, and then invite students to continue working on reading at their own pace. Some students might apply this lesson to their reading work on the same day, but the others may be in different places in their instruction so they should work on what they need. If need be, the teacher may have to pull small groups and/or confer with writers depending on where they are in the process. These lessons can be recycled or provided for a second time to support students in small groups that might need additional practice or guidance. Additionally, readers who are ready for challenges, should be provided with additional instruction in small groups.

Unit 3b- Writing

The Literary Essay- Writing about Fiction (Book 4)

Summary and Rationale

* In the spiral the word thesis is used, please replace this word with claim as that is the terminology that is used in the 3rd and 5th grade curricula.*

Throughout this unit, students are taught the value of close reading complex texts. From day one, students learn to read literature closely - and to write about the literature they are reading. They'll first learn to notice the details in a text, to appreciate that authors choose the setting, objects, words, metaphor, and characters they put into their texts for reasons, and therefore, readers are wise to read, asking, "Why might this author have made this decision?" Students will learn to read texts with attentiveness, noticing what the author has done and fashioning evidence-based theories about the text. After drafting and revising essays about a familiar short text in Bend I, students will be given feedback on their first cycle of essay writing, and then you'll ask them to repeat that cycle in the second bend, this time applying all they have learned to write more interpretively and analytically. The unit ends, in the third bend, with students writing compare-and-contrast essays, noting the different texts' approaches to the same theme or issue. They will learn ways to structure a compare-and-contrast essay and cite evidence from two texts in a seamless, purposeful manner.

BEND I: Writing about Reading: Literary Essays

Goal: Readers carefully mine texts to grow ideas for a literary essay.

Grammar Goals:

Writers use adverbs to convey degree.

Writers use subordinating conjunctions to form complex sentences.

Grammar note: Each grammar lesson is a five day cycle. The placing is approximate, but the goal is to complete lessons 8-10 of Patterns of Power during unit 3B.

Suggestions for Differentiation

Conferring/Small Group Instruction

(This list can be used to provide accommodations, modifications, and/or extensions for individual students.)

- Writers use adverbs to tell how much (Patterns of Power Lesson 8 - 5 days).
- Readers read with an attentiveness to details so that they can spark ideas and use writing as a vehicle to further develop these ideas. (Session 1: minilesson)
- Readers pay special attention to the characters in a story (traits, motivations, struggles, changes and life lessons) Session 2: minilesson
- Readers elaborate on their ideas using simple prompts. (Session 3: minilesson)
- Writers select ideas to craft into theses and then question and revise their theses, making sure they are supported by the whole text. (Session 4: minilesson)
- Writers select mini stories as evidence to support their ideas. (Session 5: minilesson)
- Writers support their ideas by choosing direct quotes that best support their ideas. (Session 6: minilesson)
- Writers use “as” to open a sentence or to add detail to a sentence (Patterns of Power Lesson 9 - 5 days)

- Deepen students' initial observations. (Session 15)
- Bring all you know to this important work. (Session 16)
- Essayists think about how, not just what. (Session 17)
- Teach simplicity versus complexity. (Session 18)

- Readers write compare-and-contrast essays by looking at similar themes across texts, or similar characters, and naming how the texts approach these themes differently or how the characters are similar or different. (Session 16: minilesson)
- Writers draw on all they know about essay writing as they tackle new projects (Session 17: minilesson)
- Writers elaborate on each of their supporting ideas, ensuring they have developed their essay with enough evidence for their claim. (Session 18: minilesson)
- Writers get their writing ready for readers by editing and polishing up their writing, specifically punctuation and comma usage. (Session 19: minilesson)
- Writers celebrate their literary essays as a community of readers and writers. (Session 20: minilesson)

Unit 4a - Reading

Social Issues Book Clubs (If, Then pgs. 94-116)

Summary and Rationale

The Social Issues Book Clubs unit teaches children to take both their books and their lives seriously. This unit uses books to teach children about the issues that affect many people, not just one person or character. In Bend I, students will learn about social issues that exist in our world and look for the problems and injustices that exist in their books. In Bend II readers will make connections and ask questions as they read to better understand the social issues in their texts. Then, readers will analyze the ways different authors address similar issues by studying the author's perspective and craft. In Bend III readers deepen their thinking and recognize social issues across books, even when they are not explicitly stated. The hope is that through reading these books and watching characters deal with social issues, the students, themselves, can learn how they might deal with such challenges issues.

Recommended Pacing

6-8 weeks (January/February)

Standards

Reading: Literature

RL.4.1.	Refer to details and examples in a text and make relevant connections when explaining what the text says explicitly and when drawing inferences from the text.
RL.4.2.	Determine a theme of a story, drama, or poem from details in the text; summarize the text.
RL.4.3.	Describe in depth a character, setting, or event in a story or drama, drawing on specific details in the text (e.g., a character's thoughts, words, or actions).
RL.4.4.	Determine the meaning of words and phrases as they are used in a text, including those that allude to significant characters found in literature
RL.4.5.	Explain major differences between poems, drama, and prose, and refer to the structural elements of poems (e.g., verse, rhythm, meter) and drama (e.g., casts of characters, settings, descriptions, dialogue, stage directions) when writing or speaking about a text.
RL.4.6.	Compare and contrast the point of view from which different stories are narrated, including the difference between first- and third-person narrations.
RL.4.7.	Make connections between specific descriptions and directions in a text and a visual or oral representation of the text.

RL.4.9.	Compare, contrast and reflect on (e.g. practical knowledge, historical/cultural context, and background knowledge genre (e.g., mysteries and adventure stories) on their approaches to similar themes and topics.
RL.4.10.	By the end of the year, read and comprehend literature, including stories, dramas, and poems at grade level text-complexity or above, with scaffolding as needed.
Reading: Informational Text
RI.4.3.	Explain events, procedures, ideas, or concepts in a historical, scientific, or technical text, including what happened and why, based on specific information in the text.
RI.4.6.	Compare and contrast a firsthand and secondhand account of the same event or topic; describe the differences in focus and the information provided.
RI.4.9.	Integrate and reflect on (e.g. practical knowledge, historical/cultural context, and background knowledge) information from two texts on the same topic in order to write or speak about the subject knowledgeably.
Writing
W.4.4.	Produce clear and coherent writing in which the development and organization are appropriate to task, purpose, and audience. (Grade-specific expectations for writing types are defined in standards 1–3 above.)
W.4.7.	Conduct short research projects that build knowledge through investigation of different aspects of a topic.
W.4.8.	Recall relevant information from experiences or gather relevant information from print and digital sources; take notes and categorize information, and provide a list of sources.
W.4.9.	Draw evidence from literary or informational texts to support analysis, reflection, and research. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a.) Apply grade 4 Reading standards to literature (e.g., “Describe in depth a character, setting, or event in a story or drama, drawing on specific details in the text [e.g., a character’s thoughts, words, or actions].”).
Speaking and Listening
SL.4.1.	Engage effectively in a range of collaborative discussions (one-on-one, in groups, and teacher-led) with diverse partners on grade 4 topics and texts, building on others’ ideas and expressing their own clearly. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a.) Explicitly draw on previously read text or material and other information known about the topic to explore ideas under discussion. b.) Follow agreed-upon rules for discussions and carry out assigned roles. c.) Pose and respond to specific questions to clarify or follow up on information, and make comments that contribute to the discussion and link to the remarks of others. d.) Review the key ideas expressed and explain their own ideas and understanding in light of the discussion.
SL.4.2.	Paraphrase portions of a text read aloud or information presented in diverse media and formats (e.g., visually, quantitatively, and orally).

SL.4.3.	Identify the reasons and evidence a speaker provides to support particular points.
SL.4.4.	Report on a topic or text, tell a story, or recount an experience in an organized manner, using appropriate facts and relevant, descriptive details to support main ideas or themes; speak clearly at an understandable pace.
SL.4.6.	Differentiate between contexts that call for formal English (e.g., presenting ideas) and situations where informal discourse is appropriate (e.g., small-group discussion); use formal English when appropriate to task and situation.
Language
L.4.4.	Determine or clarify the meaning of unknown and multiple-meaning words and phrases based on grade 4 reading and content, choosing flexibly from a range of strategies. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a.) Use context (e.g., definitions, examples, or restatements in text) as a clue to the meaning of a word or phrase. b.) Use common, grade-appropriate Greek and Latin affixes and roots as clues to the meaning of a word (e.g., telegraph, photograph, autograph). c.) Consult reference materials (e.g., dictionaries, glossaries, thesauruses), both print and digital, to find the pronunciation and determine or clarify the precise meaning of keywords and phrases.
L.4.5.	Demonstrate understanding of figurative language, word relationships, and nuances in word meanings. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a.) Explain the meaning of simple similes and metaphors (e.g., as pretty as a picture) in context. b.) Recognize and explain the meaning of common idioms, adages, and proverbs.
Interdisciplinary Connections
Social Justice Standards
JU.3-5.11	I try and get to know people as individuals because I know it is unfair to think all people in a shared identity group are the same.
JU.3-5.14	I know that life is easier for some people and harder for others based on who they are and where they were born.
ID.3-5.5	I know my family and I do things the same as and different from other people and groups, and I know how to use what I learn from home, school and other places that matter to me.

Enduring Understandings:	Essential Questions:

- Readers read between the lines to look for the issues in texts, noticing injustices that affect the character and their community, comparing and contrasting how different characters deal with problems, and thinking about the important lessons they can learn from these.
- Readers analyze the way different authors address similar issues by asking questions and making connections, reading multiple texts on the same topic, and rereading the texts closely to analyze the author's perspective and craft.
- Readers become more complex in their thinking by approaching all texts with a critical lens, noticing these social issues everywhere, even when they are not explicitly stated.

- How can I read texts (literature, informational texts, and texts that relate to current events) with a lens that lets me see the issues that are hiding in them?
- How can I notice how various authors and texts approach an issue differently?
- How can I become more complex in my thinking because I read?

Objectives (SLO)

IMPORTANT TIPS FOR IMMERSION:

During the first few days of the unit, teachers should plan time for sharing mentor texts so that students can begin to consider social issues as a whole class. You can set up opportunities for shared reading and/or interactive read aloud where you can begin to notice and think about social issues with the whole class and begin to prompt partners to think, as they turn and talk and share their thoughts and ideas.

This is a good time to address Social Issue standard ID.3-5.3 I know that all my group identities are part of who I am, but none of them fully describes me and this is true for other people too.

Possible Short Stories for Immersion

Students will know (Goals):

Students will be able to (Teaching Points):

BEND 1: Reading Between the Lines to Interpret Issues in Texts

Goal: Readers read between the lines to interpret issues in texts.

- Book club members use the social issues lens to develop empathy for people/characters in books, movies, and the world. (Session 1: minilesson)
 - During this lesson you may want to take a moment to discuss Social Justice standard JU.3-5.11, even though an individual is part of a group they are a unique person.
- Book club members recognize that texts have multiple issues and understand that these issues have different meanings and importance within the book. (Session 2: minilesson)
- Book club members question as they read. (Session 3: minilesson)
 - First, they read the story for what happens and then they read asking “What does this story teach about _____?” (a social issue: homelessness, bullying, losing someone etc.)
- Book club members pay close attention to social issues in a book by noticing how characters react to situations. (Session 4: minilesson)
 - Readers may ask “What am I learning about this issue from this scene?”
 - During this lesson you may want to take a moment to discuss Social Justice standard JU.3-5.14 the social issue that a group belongs to impacts their reactions to events because their life is different because of their social groups AND
 - ID.3-5.3 I know that all my group identities are part of who I am, but none of them fully describes me and this is true for other people too.
- Book club members pay attention to when and how a character struggles. (Session 5: minilesson)
 - “What do the character’s troubles suggest about the social issues in this book?”
 - “What do they suggest the author wants to convey about those?”
- Book club members consider how different authors convey the same, or similar, issues. (Session 6: minilesson)
- Critical readers compare and contrast the different characters’ perspectives on the social issues in a book. (Session 7: minilesson) Readers ask themselves
 - “What are the different characters’ reactions to the issues in the book?”

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ “How do characters deal with these issues in similar or different ways?” <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ During this lesson you may want to take time to address Social Justice standard ID.3-5.5 know my family and I do things the same as and different from other people and groups, and I know how to use what I learn from home, school and other places that matter to me. ● Book club members think deeply about social issues in a book by paying attention to crucial scenes in a book. (Session 8: minilesson) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Mark those pages and consider how an issue is shown there ○ Notice how characters react to the situations in those scenes <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ Determine what that teaches us about that issue ● Book club members converse about social issues in a book by examining the book through the lens of fairness and unfairness. (Session 9: minilesson) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ “I think this is fair because...” ○ “I think this is unfair because...” ○ “This matters because...” ● Book club members consider the more universal themes in their books. (Session 10: minilesson) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ To support students with level of thinking: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ Have students locate evidence to support themes ■ Consider significant recurring struggles and patterns of ideas that are repeated across the text ● Book club members look outside their fiction reading to nonfiction resources to deepen their understanding of the social issues they are reading about. (Session 11: minilesson)
BEND 2: Analyzing the Way Different Authors Address and Craft Similar Social Issues in Literature and Current Events Goal: Readers analyze the way different authors address similar social issues.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Book club members discover hidden issues in a text by using questions to guide their reading, continually growing new ideas. (Session 12: minilesson) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Who has power? Who is powerless? Why? ○ How is power maintained? ○ During this lesson you may want to take a moment to discuss Social Justice standard JU.3-5.14 the social issue that a group belongs to impacts their reactions to events because their life is different because of their social groups.

- Book club members consider the groups that the character in their books belong to (race, class, gender, religion, and also our hobbies, interests and values) and use this information to think about their various perspectives. (Session 13: minilesson)
- Book club members examine the social issues that affect their own lives to bring more insight to their book club conversations. (Session 14: minilesson)
- Book club members read multiple sources of nonfiction on the same topic to get an even deeper understanding of the text. (Session 15: minilesson)
- Book club members let their book club conversations influence their thinking and lead them to new insights by asking themselves: (Session 16: minilesson)
 - “What do we now think about the book after our conversation?”
 - “What do we now think about the social issue we have been discussing?”
 - “How will our future reading be different?”
- Book club members analyze the author's' craft and structure by closely reading and rereading sections of their novels and nonfiction texts, asking themselves questions like: (Session 17: minilesson)
 - Why did the author choose this setting as opposed to another?
 - Why did the author choose to use this flashback (or any writing technique) here?
 - Why did the author use these words to describe _____?
 - Why did the author present two characters who think and feel so differently?
- Book club members compare a poem and a text side by side, identifying similarities and differences in the author's' craft and structure. (Session 18: minilesson)
- Book club members compare and contrast the treatment of the same issue across multiple texts (poem and narrative). (Session 19: minilesson)
 - By paying attention to the tone
 - How two different authors address the same issue
 - Their use of language, structure and literary devices
 - The different points of view
 - The way the texts are different
 - The different effect the texts have on the reader

BEND 3: Bringing our Reading Lenses to the World

Goal: Readers deepen their thinking by bringing their critical reading lens to the world.

- Readers can examine their own lives as well as texts in other genres to deepen their understanding of an issue they find in fiction. (Session 20: minilesson)
- Readers use writing to stretch their thinking about what they are reading. (Session 21: minilesson) Helpful prompts:
 - “This makes me think...”
 - “On the other hand...”
 - “This connects with...”
 - “I used to think... but now I think...”
 - “Some people think.... But I think...”
- Readers use writing as a way to respond to how the book club’s conversations have shaped and influenced their own thinking. (Session 22: minilesson)
- Readers are always building on what they know; they implement strategies they’ve already learned to develop a stronger understanding of the issues they are reading about. (Session 23: minilesson)

Modifications

Please note: The teaching points above may be taught to the whole class, small groups, or individual students. They do not have to be taught in order. Teachers should utilize the pre-assessment and formative assessments in class to inform their instructional planning. They should be taught in Minilessons, Conferences, Strategy Groups, Shared Reading, Interactive Read Aloud, or Shared Writing.

NOTES FOR DIFFERENTIATION: These suggestions can be used to support students who need accommodations, modifications, and/or extensions.

If these objectives are utilized as whole class lessons, students do not have to all be in the same place as readers. The teacher should provide a whole class, mini-lesson, and then invite students to continue working on reading at their own pace. Some students might apply this lesson to their reading work on the same day, but the others may be in different places in their instruction so they should work on what they need. If need be, the teacher may have to pull small groups and/or confer with writers depending on where they are in the process. These lessons can be recycled or provided for a second time to support students in small groups that might need additional practice or guidance. Additionally, readers who are ready for challenges, should be provided with additional instruction in small groups.

Unit 4b - Writing

Boxes and Bullets: Personal and Persuasive Essays

Summary and Rationale

The Boxes and Bullets: Personal and Persuasive Essay unit focuses on teaching students to write well within an expository structure. Students will write thesis driven essays to become real world writers. Students will introduce topics clearly to readers and provide reasons to support their opinions and facts and details to elaborate on these reasons. Their writing will include strong transition words and conclusions. Bend 1 focuses on the whole process of writing within this kind of text, and gathering entries to write long about, then generating thesis statements for these entries. Bend 2 “Raising the Level of Essay writing” emphasizes gathering the evidence to support 2 reasons for their opinions, selecting the most powerful evidence, then construct a draft for each reason. This bend also focuses on using strong transitions words and phrases to create cohesion. Bend 3 “Personal to Persuasive” students will develop persuasive opinions that are more generalized and develop a plan for their own persuasive essay.

Provide a conclusion related to the opinion presented.
W.4.4.	Produce clear and coherent writing in which the development and organization are appropriate to task, purpose, and audience. (Grade-specific expectations for writing types are defined in standards 1–3 above.)
W.4.5.	With guidance and support from peers and adults, develop and strengthen writing as needed by planning, revising, and editing.
W.4.6.	With some guidance and support from adults, use technology, including the Internet, to produce and publish writing as well as to interact and collaborate with others; demonstrate sufficient command of keyboarding skills to type a minimum of one page in a single sitting.

W.4.7.	Conduct short research projects that build knowledge through investigation of different aspects of a topic.
W.4.8.	Recall relevant information from experiences or gather relevant information from print and digital sources; take notes and categorize information, and provide a list of sources.
W.4.10.	Write routinely over extended time frames (time for research, reflection, metacognition/self-correction and revision) and shorter time frames (a single sitting or a day or two) for a range of discipline-specific tasks, purposes, and audiences.
Speaking and Listening
SL.4.3.	Identify the reasons and evidence a speaker provides to support particular points.
SL.4.4.	Report on a topic or text, tell a story, or recount an experience in an organized manner, using appropriate facts and relevant, descriptive details to support main ideas or themes; speak clearly at an understandable pace.
Language
L.4.1.	Demonstrate command of the conventions of standard English grammar and usage when writing or speaking <ul style="list-style-type: none"> c.) Use modal auxiliaries (e.g., can, may, must) to convey various conditions. f.) Produce complete sentences, recognizing and correcting inappropriate fragments and run-ons.
L.4.2.	Demonstrate command of the conventions of standard English capitalization, punctuation, and spelling when writing. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a.) Use correct capitalization. b.) Use commas and quotation marks to mark direct speech and quotations from a text. c.) Use a comma before a coordinating conjunction in a compound sentence. d.) L.4.3.	Use knowledge of language and its conventions when writing, speaking, reading, or listening. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a.) Choose words and phrases to convey ideas precisely. b.) Choose punctuation for effect.
L.4.6.	Acquire and use accurately grade-appropriate general academic and domain-specific words and phrases, including those that signal precise actions, emotions, or states of being (e.g., quizzed, whined, stammered) and that are basic to a particular topic (e.g., wildlife, conservation, and endangered when discussing animal preservation).
Interdisciplinary Connections
Science
5.1.4.B.2	Measure, gather, evaluate, and share evidence using tools and technologies.

5.1.4.B.3	Formulate explanations from evidence.
5.1.4.B.4	Communicate and justify explanations with reasonable and logical arguments.
Instructional Focus
Enduring Understandings:	Essential Questions:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Writers grow ideas for essay writing by thinking about the important people, places and objects around them and then mine through these ideas to develop a thesis. Writers support their ideas in an essay by writing out the evidence, collecting mini-stories and lists, and then angling this information to best support their thesis. Possible Plan for Immersion Week

Grammar Focus

- Form and use the progressive (e.g., I was walking; I am walking; I will be walking) verb tenses. L.4.1.B
- Use modal auxiliaries (e.g., can, may, must) to convey various conditions. L.4.1.C
- Order adjectives within sentences according to conventional patterns (e.g., a small red bag rather than a red small bag). L.4.1.D
- Correctly use frequently confused words (e.g., to, too, two; there, their). L.4.1.G
- Use commas and quotation marks to mark direct speech and quotations from a text L.4.2.B

The grade level language standards above should be integrated into your planning. You may want to teach grammar mini-lessons to the whole class, small groups, and/or individuals. In addition to the grade level expectations above, students may need additional grammar instruction based upon their individual progress. Please utilize student work to determine what a student knows and is able to do and what a student might need next.

Students will know (Goals):

Students will be able to (Teaching Points):

Bend 1: Writing to Learn

Goal: Writers grow compelling ideas by using a variety of strategies.

Suggestions for Differentiation

Conferring/Small Group Instruction

(This list can be used to provide accommodations, modifications, and/or extensions for individual students.)

- Voiceover and coach to ratchet up the level of student work. (Session 1)
- Anticipate ways to keep students working, despite the brevity of their entries. (Session 2)
- Provide guided practice. (Session 3)
- Note qualities of good essay writing in children's work. (Session 4)
- Encourage children to make choices. (Session 5)
- Anticipate predictable problems. (Session 6)

- Writers use an essay frame to help structure their writing. (Session 1: minilesson)
- Writers use many strategies to gather ideas for writing and then elaborate on those ideas (important people, places and objects). (Session 2: minilesson)
- Writers use conventions of grammar to order adjectives in a descriptive sentence (L.4.1.D)
- Writers freewrite to grow new ideas. (Session 3: minilesson)
- Writers linger with their ideas, using elaboration prompts to grow their ideas. (Session 4: minilesson)
- Writers mine their entries and their lives for insights, developing these into more fully formed ideas and thesis statements. (Session 5: minilesson)
- Writers support their thesis by developing different types of reasons. (Session 6: minilesson)
- Writers focus on both form and content, gathering a variety of evidence to support their opinions as they write within the frame of an essay. (Session 7: minilesson)

Bend 2: Raising the Level of Essay Writing

Goal: Writers logically organize their essay and draw on many sources of evidence to support their ideas.

Suggestions for Differentiation

- Writers draw on narrative writing and use mini-stories to support their ideas. (Session 8: minilesson)
- Writers use the progressive verb tense to show what is happening at a specific part of their writing (L.4.1.B)
- Writers gather a lot of different materials, like lists, to write their essays, and decide which material fit best in their essays. (Session 9: minilesson)

Career Readiness, Life Literacies, and Key Skills Practices (June 2020)

- Act as a responsible and contributing community members and employee.
- Consider the environmental, social and economic impacts of decisions.
- Demonstrate creativity and innovation.
- Utilize critical thinking to make sense of problems and persevere in solving them.
- Model integrity, ethical leadership and effective management.
- Use technology to enhance productivity increase collaboration and communicate effectively.

- Work productively in teams while using cultural/global competence

Unit - Test Prep
Test Prep
Summary and Rationale
 This is a 4 week unit. Assess which skills are ones that your class needs and skip any that are unnecessary. In the unit, Test Prep it is important to note that state reading tests are reading tests which measure comprehension and reading rate. The best preparation for state tests is to teach students to be stronger readers, tackling stamina, volume, and comprehension simultaneously. The goal is to support students in bringing forward strategies for each genre that they have learned across the course of the year. It is important to note that students should maintain their independent reading during test prep, and have a reading/test/prep workshop where students read, talk about, and answer questions about short test like texts and multiple choice strategies. There should be a separate time for independent reading in which students read just right texts. The best preparation for any test is a year of meaningful, responsive instruction. In order to have students read, think about, and write about complex texts (& enter standardized testing with confidence, competence, and a sense of calm), some teachers choose to engage in a “hybrid” reading/writing/short text unit to prepare students for the format and experience of test taking. In this unit, the emphasis is on helping students realize and remember all they know and are already bringing to the table, while familiarizing students with how to transfer this knowledge to a more time-specific, formal setting.

- remembering to be on the lookout for key elements of nonfiction including- main ideas and details, text structure, content words
- remembering the type of thinking we often do with nonfiction: determining main idea, finding corresponding details, figuring out -often multiple meaning- content words, synthesizing ideas across a text, determining the author's point of view/perspective on the topic, locating supportive evidence for all thinking...).

Readers preview images by taking a quick peek, noticing the colors, shapes, and feeling they get right away.

Readers preview poems by noticing & thinking about the title, structure, standout words, and format.

Readers decide if a text is narrative or informational:

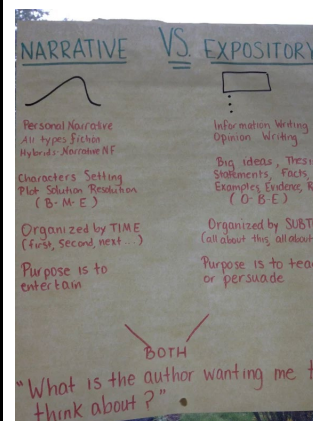

- Readers preview (& possibly read a bit) to see if there are characters doing things. If so, it's narrative.
- Readers preview (& possibly read a bit) to see if the piece is teaching the reader something. If so, it's informational.

Readers use their common sense in addition to their literacy know-how. They:

- Eliminate answers that they are sure do not fit/are not correct.
- Read the directions.
- Select the appropriate number of responses.
- Use their answer from "part A" to help them answer "Part B."
- Return to the text as frequently as they like- rereading is always a worthwhile practice.
- Use the digital tools to help them pop out certain parts of the text.
- Remember not to overuse the digital tools.
- Make sure they answered all parts of the question

Readers/writers think about what Part A of each question is asking them to think about:

- Create "flipped questions" by using the words from the question in a different order to make a statement.
- Look for text citation and reread that part of the text with a "flipped question" type of answer.

- Readers understand the language of multiple-choice questions to determine what skill is being assessed (main idea, inference, vocabulary, etc.)

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Look for bold words in the question and reread, looking for that word, and deciding on the best definition. Readers/writers think about what Part B of each question is asking them to think about: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> State, “I know that (answer from Part A) is true because the author said, (answer from Part B).” Choose the best of the right answers by saying, “This choice is better because.”
Readers/writers refer back to the text as much as needed to help them feel successful.	Readers/writers write thorough essays: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Take notes on relevant information while viewing the video. Reread notes once the video is complete and ask yourself, “What do I expect the next text to be about?” Read the next text with the lens of expectations based on the video. Take notes on the texts. Readers /writers draft well-crafted responses: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Open the response with a flipped question, and answer the question. Cite relevant, concise text evidence that supports the answer. Strengthen the response with subsequent pieces of text evidence. Elaborate on constructed response using “essay-stretcher” words (This means; This makes me think; This is important because; etc.). Elaborate on writing through sophisticated vocabulary and syntax. Readers/writers draft thorough constructed responses: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Identify the question being asked, and open with a flipped question and an answer to the question. Chunk the prompt into parts, and make sure they are addressing each part in the body of the writing. Make a plan with bullets on planning paper. Check to make sure that each part of the prompt is addressed in the writing with detail and text evidence and/or narrative elements. Readers/writers persevere and keep going!
Readers/writers persevere and keep going!	Readers/Writers manage their time during a test: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Prepare for the passage by reading the questions before reading the passage, and ask, “What do I expect to think about in this passage?” 	A good test tip for SOME students (particularly those who struggle with time

- Readers have strategies for dealing with difficult texts. (rereading, skimming, substitute synonyms for tricky words, etc).	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • After pre-reading the questions, mark key words while reading the passage. • When answering questions, skip questions that seem difficult and return to them. • Set goals for time, reflect on them, and modify them. • Pre-read the passage and mark keywords that are noticed in the margin. Readers/writers use strategies to stay calm and focused when things might feel long or frustrating: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • take deep breaths to calm down and get focused. • close their eyes and count to ten if they feel themselves getting frustrated. • use a “in your seat” strategy like push, pull, dangle to get some sensory input and refocus. • use self-talk: pay themselves a compliment or recognize and celebrate something they have already done. • use their headphones- even if it is not a part of the test in which headphones are needed- to help them block out background noises. • take a moment to visualize their “happy place” and enjoy “being” in that place - for a moment or two- before returning to their test. • remember a motivational saying and telling it to themselves. • remember that no test can ever define them! Readers/writers pace themselves. They do this by knowing some general guidelines: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Question reading & planning: about 5 minutes • Skeleton drafting from start to finish: about 10 minutes • Elaboration and enhancing: about 5 minutes • Editing and polishing: any remaining time Readers/writers use the time they are given, knowing that if they feel finished and there’s time remaining, that they have more work to do.	management) is to get the draft DONE first (a skeleton or bare bones draft) and then go back and add in their elaboration, craft, extra details, etc. This way, students do not run out of time before getting to an ending/closing.
Please note: The teaching points above may be taught to the whole class, small groups, or individual students. They do not have to be taught in order. Teachers should utilize the pre-assessment and formative assessments in class to inform their instructional planning. They should be taught in Minilessons, Conferences, Strategy Groups, Shared Reading, Interactive Read Aloud, or Shared Writing.

NOTES FOR DIFFERENTIATION: These suggestions can be used to support students who need accommodations, modifications, and/or extensions.

If these objectives are utilized as whole class lessons, students do not have to all be in the same place as readers. The teacher should provide a whole class, mini-lesson, and then invite students to continue working on reading at their own pace. Some students might apply this lesson to their reading work on the same day, but the others may be in different places in their instruction so they should work on what they need. If need be, the teacher may have to pull small groups and/or confer with writers depending on where they are in the process. These lessons can be recycled or provided for a second time to support students in small groups that might need additional practice or guidance. Additionally, readers who are ready for challenges, should be provided with additional instruction in small groups.

Unit 5a- Reading

Historical Fiction Book Clubs (Book 4)

Summary and Rationale

Historical Fiction Book Clubs unit supports students in learning to read in ways that allow them to make deep, rich interpretations and to engage in strong, analytic reading. Students will develop ideas about characters, determining themes, inferring within text, compare and contrasting texts, synthesizing across texts, and talking and writing about reading. Bend 1 focuses the reader to construct a sense of the setting not just as a physical place, but as an emotional place. Students will synthesize the evolving settings with the plotlines and subplots. Bend 2 emphasizes the interpretation of a story, helping students to see beyond the plot. Bend 3 invites readers to think between texts (Fiction & Non-fiction). Students will use the nonfiction texts to learn more about the characters, their struggles, their perspectives, their insights, and their knowledge of history.

RL.4.5.	Explain major differences between poems, drama, and prose, and refer to the structural elements of poems (e.g., verse, rhythm, meter) and drama (e.g., casts of characters, settings, descriptions, dialogue, stage directions) when writing or speaking about a text.
RL.4.6.	Compare and contrast the point of view from which different stories are narrated, including the difference between first- and third-person narrations.

RL.4.7.	Make connections between specific descriptions and directions in a text and a visual or oral representation of the text
RL.4.9.	Compare, contrast and reflect on (e.g. practical knowledge, historical/cultural context, and background knowledge, genre (e.g., mysteries and adventure stories) on their approaches to similar themes and topics.
Reading: Informational Text
RI.4.1.	Refer to details and examples in a text and make relevant connections when explaining what the text says explicitly and when drawing inferences from the text.
RI.4.3.	Explain events, procedures, ideas, or concepts in a historical, scientific, or technical text, including what happened and why, based on specific information in the text.
Writing
W.4.9	Draw evidence from literary or informational texts to support analysis, reflection, and research. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a.) Apply grade 4 Reading standards to literature (e.g., “Describe in depth a character, setting, or event in a story or drama, drawing on specific details in the text [e.g., a character’s thoughts, words, or actions].”). b.) Apply grade 4 Reading standards to informational texts (e.g., “Explain how an author uses reasons and evidence to support particular points in a text”).
Speaking and Listening
SL.4.1.	Engage effectively in a range of collaborative discussions (one-on-one, in groups, and teacher-led) with diverse partners on grade 4 topics and texts, building on others’ ideas and expressing their own clearly. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a.) Explicitly draw on previously read text or material and other information known about the topic to explore ideas under discussion. b.) Follow agreed-upon rules for discussions and carry out assigned roles. c.) Pose and respond to specific questions to clarify or follow up on information, and make comments that contribute to the discussion and link to the remarks of others. d.) Review the key ideas expressed and explain their own ideas and understanding in light of the discussion.
SL.4.2.	Paraphrase portions of a text read aloud or information presented in diverse media and formats (e.g., visually, quantitatively, and orally).
SL.4.4.	Report on a topic or text, tell a story, or recount an experience in an organized manner, using appropriate facts and relevant, descriptive details to support main ideas or themes; speak clearly at an understandable pace.
Language
L.4.6.	Acquire and use accurately grade-appropriate general academic and domain-specific words and phrases, including those that signal precise actions, emotions, or states of being (e.g., quizzed, whined, stammered) and that are basic to a particular topic (e.g., wildlife, conservation, and endangered when discussing animal preservation).

Interdisciplinary Connections
Social Studies
6.1.4.D.13	Describe how culture is expressed through and influenced by the behavior of people.
6.1.4.D.16	Describe how stereotyping and prejudice can lead to conflict, using examples from the past and present.
6.1.4.D.18	Explain how an individual's beliefs, values, and traditions may reflect more than one culture.
6.1.4.D.19	Explain how experiences and events may be interpreted differently by people with different cultural or individual perspectives.
6.1.4.D.20	Describe why it is important to understand the perspectives of other cultures in an interconnected world.
Integration of Technology
8.1.5.A.1	Select and use the appropriate digital tools and resources to accomplish a variety of tasks including solving problems.
Social Justice
JU.3-5.11	I try to get to know people as individuals because I know it is unfair to think all people in a shared identity group are the same.
JU.3-5.12	I know when people are treated unfairly, and I can give examples of prejudice words, pictures and rules.
JU.3-5.13	I know that words, behaviors, rules and laws that treat people unfairly based on their group identities cause real harm.

Interactive Read Aloud: Number the Stars (Suggested Text)

Follow the pacing guide below to ensure that your readers are prepared for each session ahead of time. There are times you'll read aloud during a mini lesson; however, this will not be when you do the bulk of your read aloud. To keep minilessons brief and maximize independent reading time, your read aloud will take place in a block of time outside of reading workshop.

Unit 5b - Writing
Historical Fiction Writing (If, Then)
Summary and Rationale
The Historical Fiction writing unit uses the narrative process to write stories in the historical fiction genre. In the beginning students will learn to read historical texts through the lens of a writer. Students will need to pay close attention to author's craft. Bend 1 focuses on collecting, developing possible historical fiction ideas. In Bend 2 students will choose one idea and develop it into their first Historical Fiction story. They will use strong narrative craft and pay attention to creating historical accurate plotlines & believable characters. Bend 3 emphasizes learning from their revisions. Students use their revisions of past stories to set goals to improve their writing of future stories. Bend 4 shifts from the student's initial drafting to a more focused drafting process which involves deep revision work, and editing
Recommended Pacing
6-8 weeks (May/June)
Standards
Writing
W.4.3.a,b, d	Write narratives to develop real or imagined experiences or events using narrative technique, descriptive details, and clear event sequences. Orient the reader by establishing a situation and introducing a narrator and/or characters; organize an event sequence that unfolds naturally. Use dialogue and description to develop experiences and events or show the responses of characters to situations. Use a variety of transitional words and phrases to manage the sequence of events. Use concrete words and phrases and sensory details to convey experiences and events precisely. Provide a conclusion that follows from the narrated experiences or events
W4.4	Produce clear and coherent writing in which the development and organization are appropriate to task, purpose, and audience.

W4.5	With guidance and support from peers and adults, develop and strengthen writing as needed by planning, revising, and editing
W4.8	Recall relevant information from experiences or gather relevant information from print and digital sources; take notes and categorize information, and provide a list of sources.
W4.9	Draw evidence from literary or informational texts to support analysis, reflection, and research. • Apply grade 4 Reading standards to literature (e.g., “Describe in depth a character, setting, or event in a story or drama, drawing on specific details in the text [e.g., a character’s thoughts, words, or actions].”).
W4.10	Write routinely over extended time frames (time for research, reflection, and revision) and shorter time frames (a single sitting or a day or two) for a range of discipline-specific tasks, purposes, and audiences.
Speaking and Listening
SL4.4	Report on a topic or text, tell a story, or recount an experience in an organized manner, using appropriate facts and relevant, descriptive details to support main ideas or themes; speak clearly at an understandable pace.
Language
L4.1 e,f	Demonstrate command of the conventions of standard English grammar and usage when writing or speaking. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Use relative pronouns (who, whose, whom, which, that) and relative adverbs (where, when, why). • Form and use the progressive (e.g., I was walking; I am walking; I will be walking) verb tenses. • Use modal auxiliaries (e.g., can, may, must) to convey various conditions. • Order adjectives within sentences according to conventional patterns (e.g., a small red bag rather than a red small bag). • Form and use prepositional phrases. • Produce complete sentences, recognizing and correcting inappropriate fragments and run-ons.* • Correctly use frequently confused words (e.g., to, too, two; there, their).*
L4.2	Demonstrate command of the conventions of standard English capitalization, punctuation, and spelling when writing. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Use correct capitalization. • Use commas and quotation marks to mark direct speech and quotations from a text. • Use a comma before a coordinating conjunction in a compound sentence. • Spell grade-appropriate words correctly, consulting references as needed.
L4.3 a,b	Use knowledge of language and its conventions when writing, speaking, reading, or listening. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Choose words and phrases to convey ideas precisely.* • Choose punctuation for effect.* • Differentiate between contexts that call for formal English (e.g., presenting ideas) and situations where informal discourse is appropriate (e.g., small-group discussion).
L4.5 c	Demonstrate understanding of figurative language, word relationships, and nuances in word meanings. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Explain the meaning of simple similes and metaphors (e.g., as pretty as a picture) in context.

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Recognize and explain the meaning of common idioms, adages, and proverbs. ● Demonstrate understanding of words by relating them to their opposites(antonyms) and to words with similar but not identical meanings (synonyms).
Instructional Focus
Enduring Understandings:	Essential Questions:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Writers use what they learned about narrative writing to collect, research, select, and develop story ideas that are set in a historical time period. ● Writers choose a story idea and take it through the writing process, using timelines and historical references to create accurate plotlines and believable characters. ● Writers draft stories aiming to write and revise with even greater attention to strong narrative craft, historical accuracy, writing the internal and external story, and theme. ● Writers prepare their stories for an audience through more focused drafting, deep revision work, and editing. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● How do writers generate ideas & plan to write Historical fiction? ● How do writers take a seed idea and grow it into a historical fiction story? ● How do writers use revision to improve their future historical writing pieces? ● How do writers prepare their historical fiction story for an audience?

IMPORTANT TIPS FOR IMMERSION:

During the first few days of the unit, teachers should plan time for sharing mentor texts so that students can all explore, study, and notice characteristics of historical fiction - reading from the lens of the writer. Interactive and shared writing are also important ways for students to see the process of writing literary essays.

Possible Plan for Immersion Week

Grammar/Language Focus

- Writers form and use the progressive (e.g., I was walking; I am walking; I will be walking) verb tenses.
- Writers order adjectives within sentences according to conventional patterns (e.g. a small red bag rather than a red small bag).
- Writers correctly use frequently confused words (e.g. to; too, two; there; their; they're)
- Form and use prepositional phrases.*
- Writers use commas and quotation marks to mark direct speech.*
- Writers produce complete sentences, recognizing and correcting inappropriate fragments and run-ons.*
- Writers use a comma before a coordinating conjunction in a compound sentence.*
- Writers spell-grade appropriate words correctly, consulting references as needed.*

The grade level language standards above should be integrated into your planning. You may want to teach grammar mini-lessons to the whole class, small groups, and/or individuals. In addition to the grade level expectations above, students may need additional grammar instruction based upon their individual progress. Please utilize student work to determine what a student knows and is able to do and what a student might need next.

*These skills should have been introduced in previous writing units and should be supported in this unit, as necessary.

Students will know: (Goals)	Students will be able to: (Teaching Points)
Bend 1: Collect, Select, and Develop Story Ideas (*This bend should take no more than a week to teach.) Goal: Writers generate ideas & plan to write Historical fiction	<ul style="list-style-type: none">● Writers of Historical Fiction study the Genre, by taking in these texts with the lens of a writer, considering the craft of its authors and the elements authors select to be included. (Session 1)<ul style="list-style-type: none">○ This is good lesson to use The Whispering Town from our diverse text list (lesson extensions available here)● Writers generate ideas for stories through research of the historical era their story will be set. (session 3)● Writers generate ideas by considering historical context by examining timelines and facts for possible conflict, character, plots. (Session 4)

Bend 2: Choose a First Seed Idea and take it through the writing process. Goal: Writers draft accurate historical plotlines and believable characters.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Writers of historical fiction create a cohesive focused plot by understanding their characters wants/struggles are often linked to larger events happening around them. (Session 5) • Writers of historical fiction develop believable characters by thinking of the characters inside and outside traits that might go together during a historical time period. (Session 6) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ◦ Ask “Does this ring true for the time period?” • Writers draft and revise compelling historical fiction stories. (Session 7)
Bend 3: Take a second seed idea through the writing process, with greater attention to bringing out historical accuracy and meaning. Goal: Writers draft another historical fiction story focusing on narrative craft and theme.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Writers of historical fiction develop the setting by paying close attention to time-period specific terminology, historical detail and meaning. (session 8) • Writers revise by paying close attention to story scope and believability. (session 9) • Writers revise for historical accuracy. (session 10) • Writers of historical fiction understand how the characters do not have to resolve the historical struggle to create a satisfying ending. (session 11) • Writers generate satisfying endings (session 12)

It is suggested to have a wide variety of historical fiction picture books, novels, resources, maps etc. from different historical time periods.

Read aloud Suggestions:

Freedom Summer by Deborah Wiles (Segregation)

Pink and Say by Patricia Polacco (Civil War)

Modifications

Please note: The teaching points above may be taught to the whole class, small groups, or individual students. They do not have to be taught in order. Teachers should utilize the pre-assessment and formative assessments in class to inform their instructional planning. They should be taught in Minilessons, Conferences, Strategy Groups, Shared Reading, Interactive Read Aloud, or Shared Writing.

NOTES FOR DIFFERENTIATION: These suggestions can be used to support students who need accommodations, modifications, and/or extensions.

If these objectives are utilized as whole class lessons, students do not have to all be in the same place as readers. The teacher should provide a whole class, mini-lesson, and then invite students to continue working on reading at their own pace. Some students might apply this lesson to their reading work on the same day, but the others may be in different places in their instruction so they should work on what they need. If need be, the teacher may have to pull small groups and/or confer with writers depending on where they are in the process. These lessons can be recycled or provided for a second time to support students in small groups that might need additional practice or guidance. Additionally, readers who are ready for challenges, should be provided with additional instruction in small groups.
